President of Hollywood's Local Says Attempt is Being Made to Settle

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—(UP)—A walkout of all members of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employes in Warner Brothers-First National studios was ordered for 6 p. m. by Lew Blix, president of the Hollywood local.

The walkout, it was said, will be a protest against wage cuts of from 25 to 40 per cent, assertedly made by studio executives without consulting union officials.

Blix said that electricians, cameramen, sound technicians, projectionists, film editors, laboratory workers and property men, were included in the union order.

He said notice had been served on studio officials.

According to Blix, the union was attempting to reach an agreement with the studio.

"We hope this matter will be of short duration," Blix said.

ASSEMBLYMAN FREE ON HABEAS CORPUS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Assemblyman Dan Emmett, Santa Paula, was free today under a writ of habeas corpus, pending appeal pending his conviction on a battery charge for hitting a traffic policeman here during the last session of the legislature.

The writ was issued by Appellate Justice Hugh Preston after Emmett had surrendered when the superior court upheld the $100 fine or 50 days in jail imposed by police court. The writ was made returnable December 21.

Emmett was arrested during the legislative session when he engaged in an altercation with Traffic Officer Frank Lungershausen over pedestrian traffic regulation.

WIDOW OF PASTOR IS KILLED IN FALL

LA JOLLA, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Mrs. Edmund Duckworth, 65, of St. Lous, either fell or leaped to her death from the 75-foot high tower of St. James Episcopal church here yesterday. She was the widow of a former Episcopal minister of St. Louis.

No one saw the body fall, and it was only discovered at 5 p. m. by a police patrolman.

Mrs. Duckworth had been at church during the afternoon, and several church-goers reported to Coroner Chester Gunn the woman was acting strangely during the service. Afterward, to reach the tower of the church, she had to force her way through a heavy trap door.

VOTE IN HOUSE ON PROHIBITION SEEMS CERTAIN

Bourbon Leaders Saturday to Approve Modification of Rules

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—(UP)—A vote on prohibition in the house of representatives appeared virtually certain today, and plenty of members are quaking in their boots over the prospect.

Those who have straddled on prohibition are looking askance at the rapid trend of developments which have put both parties on record for changes in house rules which would permit a vote.

Republicans have approved a modification of rules which would give any bill in the house a vote if 145 members sign a petition. Democratic leaders have come out for similar revision, and have thrown the issue into the party caucus to be held tomorrow.

The Democrats, who have been split more than once on prohibition, apparently are destined to face a fight in their party caucus as did republicans yesterday. Leaders are seeking to submerge the prohibition issue as part of the rules fight, but it forces its way to the front notwithstanding.

Republicans skirted about it for two days during their discussion of rules, and then it burst forth in full flower at the final meeting yesterday. Rep. Hull, Ill., a wet, finally brought up the controversial subject, telling his colleagues they might as well face it.

Drys then rallied to make a last ditch fight. They supported an amendment to the "145 rule" which would require 190 members to sign a petition before a vote could be taken on a constitutional amendment. This was designed to prevent a vote on one of the most popular anti-prohibition proposals —resubmission of the 18th amendment to the states.

It was defeated when some wily wets, learning that the democrats had come out for rules revision, warned the republicans that unless they adopted the "145 rules" the opposition would steal their thunder. It worked. The amendment was lost, and liberal rule endorsed.

WOMAN BANDIT IS HELD BY OFFICERS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 4.—(UP) — Suffering from bullet wounds received when she allegedly attempted to hold up a service station attendant, Mrs. Mary Penfield, 22, was near death today at Sacramento hospital.

Sheriff's deputies investigating the case said the young woman entered the service station of W. J. Hassley near Ben Ali late last night and flourishing a revolver demanded the money from the cash drawer. Hassley refused to comply, he told officers, and the woman fired. He seized a rifle and turned the fire, hitting her in the hip and abdomen.

The woman then fled to a waiting automobile driven by a man, officers said, and several hours later applied for assistance at a Sacramento residence. Officers were summoned and the woman taken to a hospital.

TAX BILL INCREASES $75,000 IN 2 YEARS

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 4.—(UP)—In 1929 M. D. Huffman, aged former sheepman and county supervisor, and his niece, Miss Idyll Hardie, paid $120.72 taxes on a quarter section of Kettleman Hills land once considered nearly worthless.

This year the tax bill is $75,000.

The property now has several oil wells, two of them among the best producers in the famous field. Huffman bought the property at a tax sale in 1920 for about $650 and later sold his niece 40 acres of it.

The Superior Oil co[illegible] of Los Angeles, developers of the property with a seven-eighths possessory interest, will pay $66,570 of this year's taxes.

Huffman has been reported paid more than $500,000 royalties in the last 18 months.

JUDGE DISGUISES HIMSELF AS CROOK AND JOINS GANG IN ORDER TO BREAK IT UP

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(UP—A Judge who doffed his judicial mein for shabby clothes and played a modern Haroun Al-Rashid in criminal haunts of the west side "Valley" today moved to exterminate the youthful "42" gang of hoodlums.

Like the ancient Caliph of Bagdad who mingled in disguise to observe the state of his people, Judge Francis Borrelli risked his life daily for nearly a month to penetrate the inner circles of the notorious ring.

Thirty-one men were jailed in early morning raids today by police who announced they would co-operate with the daring jurist in his drive. Yesterday six "42" gangsters were fined and several others held for investigation.

Judge Borrelli, a studious man who wears large horn-rimmed glasses, told how he disguised himself in checkered cap and cheap, gaudy clothes of the petty gangster to learn the intimate details of the gang which is blamed for hundreds of crimes.

"I determined to put an end to the depredations of this gang," the judge said. "Most of them are Italians, members of my race but they are a disgrace to their nationality and a menace that I am resolved to destroy."

"Once in the inner circle, I learned how the gang is divided into two groups," the judge said. "One is made up of veteran criminals. The other is composed of youngsters who are trained as apprentices in crime."

SPECIAL CASH DIVIDEND IS PAID GROWERS

Surprise Payment of $35,000 Nearly Equals Walnut Pool for Year

COMING AS A welcome surprise to grower members, a special distribution of $35,000 from the revolving fund is being made today by the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association, it was reported from the association offices by Josephine Lykke, secretary.

This special cash distribution was put in the mail today, following closely on the heels of the final payment of $21,000 on the 1931 pool, which was made by the association to members this week, making a total of $56,000 available just prior to the holiday season.

Some 450 Orange county growers will be recipients of the checks which were mailed today, according to Mrs. Lykke. The fund was paid out of a revolving fund covering the period from 1918 to 1924.

The final pool payment which was made this week makes a total of $49,450 for the year, according to association officials. This amount was less than that realized last year due to a short crop and damaged nuts.

CONTRA COSTA MAN GIVEN HIGH OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Governor Rolph today appointed William H. Hanlon of Martinez, superintendent of schools of Contra Costa county, and a staunch defender of state printing of public school textbooks, to be a member of the state board of education.

Hanlon succeeds Mary Roberts Coolidge of Berkeley, whose term expired. His term will run until January 15, 1935.

Hanlon, a prominent northern California educator, was mentioned as a possible candidate for state superintendent of public instruction to oppose Vierling Kersey at the last state primary. He has repeatedly led the defenders of state printing in the ranks of the State School Superintendents' association.

YOUTH KILLED WHEN RUN OVER BY TRAIN

DAVIS, Calif., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Frank Hugh Langdon, 19, of Portland, Ore., was instantly killed in the Southern Pacific yards here last night when he fell from a freight train and the wheels passed over his body.

Robert Langdon, 17, a brother, witnessed the accident. The boys were en route to California in search of work, Robert told authorities. Mrs. Helen Langdon of Portland, mother of the boys, was notified of the tragedy.

HOOVER'S KIN GOES ON TRIAL THIS MORNING

Prosecution Tries to Show Leavitt Knew He Had Liquor in Sack

BULLETIN

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 4.—(UP)—C. Van Ness Leavitt, 57, brother-in-law of President Hoover, today was found not guilty of a charge of possession of liquor.

The decision was made by Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer, who tried Leavitt without a jury.

Judge Spencer invoked "the original law," requiring that unlawful and wilful possession must be shown.

At the finish of his short statement, he said: "I do not believe there is a man or woman in this courtroom who would find this defendant guilty; I find him not guilty."

The crowded courtroom burst into thunderous applause.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Prosecution witnesses attempted to prove today that C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, knew there was liquor in a burlap sack he carried out of a grocery store here on the night of November 9.

The prosecution summoned three witnesses, all prohibition agents, to begin Leavitt's trial before Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer on a charge of possession of liquor.

Thomas (Tommy) Carr, known as the "demon dry agent of Santa Monica," testified that Leavitt showed little, if any, surprise when confronted with the fact that the sack contained liquor.

Carr said that after he had examined the contents of the sack, he said to Leavitt: "Well, I guess I know who that belongs to."

"Well, you're right," he quoted Leavitt as replying.

Carr also said that after Leavitt was arrested and had been taken

RAISIN GROWERS OF STATE GET MILLION

FRESNO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Raisin growers of California were $948,663 richer today as they received checks totalling that amount from California Raisin Pool, Inc., farm board organization. The money nearly completes payments on the 1930 crops of Thompson seedless raisins, but includes small amounts to growers of other varieties of grapes.

Wylie M. Giffen, pool president, accompanied the checks with a letter pointing out that the pool still holds about 6000 tons of muscats, 900 tons of sultanas and 600 tons of malagas of the 1930 crop. The letter said final payments on the 1930 crops would be made when those raisins were disposed of.

The checks received by growers today represented payments of $11.35 per ton on Thompsons, bringing the total average paid for that variety to $59.10, including the advance payments.

CLARA BOW AND REX BELL TAKE NUPTIAL VOWS

Couple Hurriedly and Secretly Married in Las Vegas Last Night

LAS VEGAS, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Clara Bow, famous screen red head, and Rex Bell, her actor fiance, were married here secretly last night, it was revealed today.

The ceremony was performed by Judge William E. Orr. Every effort was made to keep the wedding secret. A representative of the United Press learned that the ceremony was attended by Deputy Sheriff R. G. McCubery, a friend of the couple.

Judge Orr declined to make any comment, saying that he wished to respect the wishes of bride and bridegroom that the wedding be attended by a minimum of publicity.

It was learned that immediately after the wedding the couple set out by automobile for Bell's ranch at Searchlight, 50 miles from here, and ten miles from a telegraph station or telephone.

The couple gave their names as Clara Gordon Bow, 26, and George F. Belham, 28.

Some indication of the suddenness with which the wedding was decided upon was learned from County Clerk William F. Schuyler, who said that his first intimation that they were even in Las Vegas was when he was roused out of bed to issue the license.

Evacuation Of Chinchow Is Sought

Would Resort to Arms Rather Than Diplomacy to Force Withdrawal

TOKIO, Dec. 4.—(UP)—New instructions believed to be Japan's "last stand" for peaceful settlement of the Manchurian dispute were forwarded to Paris today.

Meanwhile, it appeared that the government would resort to arms rather than diplomacy to force Chinese troops to withdraw from Chinchow inside the Great Wall.

The government did not consider the situation at Paris hopeless if the league would leave evacuation of the Chinchow area to direct Sino-Japanese negotiations and accept Japan's modifications to the league's plan to settle the conflict with China. That, of course, is what Japan has insisted.

Aristide Briand's declaration as president of the league council regarding the rights of Japanese troops to operate against bandits in a neutral Manchurian zone was described officially as especially unsatisfactory. One of the provisions to which Japan objected was that neutral military observers should accompany either Chinese or Japanese forces in action in the zone.

Reported increase of Chinese troops in the Chinchow area increased the belief that Japan would resort to military strength rather than diplomatic measures to clear the district.

SAINTS AND VIKINGS EVEN IN FIRST QUARTER; 0 TO 0

The play-by-play action of the first quarter of the Santa Ana-Santa Monica high school football game at Santa Monica this afternoon follows. Neither team had scored at the end of the quarter.

There was a capacity crowd present, with all bleachers filled and crowds out along the side lines. Mellot started at center instead of Meacham, Utick at righ guard in place of DeSmet.

The play follows:

The captains met on the 50 yard line, Santa Ana won the toss and elected to receive and defend the north goal. Fowler will kick for Santa Monica. Fowler kicked off to Conrad who took the ball on the 16 yard line and took it back to the 30 yard line where he was stopped by Willard. They shift to the right. Blower goes over right tackle for 2 yards where he was stopped by Noonan. They shift right. Blower gives the ball to Kidder on a reverse around left end, making 2 yards. Blower back in punt formation. He kicks a high one to Noonan who took the ball on his own 30 yard line and returned it 3 yards where he was stopped by Lash. They huddle. Lopez has the ball. He was stopped on an end run after making 2 yards. Lopez again takes the ball and goes over left tackle for 2 yards where he was stopped by Hinesly. The ball was taken back and Santa Monica penalized 5 yards for having the backfield in motion.

Lopez was stopped at the line of scrimmage. Fowler sent a nice high punt to Conrad who signalled for a fair catch on his own 37 yard line. They shift right. Blower has the ball. He goes around right end for one yard. He was stopped by Brothers. Shift left. Bell takes the ball and on attempted run around right end is stopped at the line of scrimmage by Noonan. The ball is taken back and the Saints penalized 5 yards for offside. Blower back in punt formation. Blower kicks to Fowler who gets the ball on his own 38 yard line and is run out of bounds at that spot. Fowler goes through center for 4 yards. He had a nice hole over center and was stopped by Kidder. Lopez takes the ball and goes around right end, but fails to gain. He was stopped by Lutz who dived over the line of scrimmage. Fowler back in punt formation. Fowler kicks a nice long one to Conrad who took the ball on his own 29 yard line and ran it back 20 yards.

They shift to the right. Kidder has the ball. Stopped by Fowler and was thrown for a 2-yard loss. Apparently the Saints got their signals mixed on this play. Blower fades back for a pass. He heaves a long one to Bell who caught it and was downed on the Santa Monica 27-yard line. Bell had to make a high leap to get it. Blower has the ball. He started around end and cut through left tackle, gaining seven yards. The Saints are taking plenty of time. Shift right. Kidder takes the ball. He goes through center and gets out in the clear and makes a first down on the Vikings' 7-yard line. First down and goal to go. Blower takes the ball over left guard for 2 yards. The Saints didn't shift on the play. The Saints went into a huddle for the first time. Shift to the right. Kidder on a reverse goes over left tackle for one yard where he was stopped by Noonan.

Third down and goal to go. Kidder on a split buck goes over left tackle to the 3-yard line. He was stopped by Woodcock. Four down and 3 to go to the goal line. Shift to the right. Blower takes the ball and goes over right tackle, but is stopped one yard from the goal line. The Vikings take the ball on down on their own 1-yard line. Fowler back in punt formation. He gets away a nice one. Conrad takes it on Santa Monica's 35-yard line and was stopped in his tracks by Brothers.

Shift to the left. He's fading back for a pass. He shoots in Blower and it's complete. Blower ran to the Santa Monica 9-yard line. Blower was in the clear when he caught and was brought down by Brothers. Blower has the ball. He goes around right end where he is stopped by Brothers, as the quarter ends. The ball is on the Santa Monica 5-yard line.

Perenich replaces Cariye at right end for Santa Ana.

LOWER GAS RATES WILL BE DEMANDED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Following a preliminary hearing before the state railroad commission late Thursday, Councilmen from San Diego and their attorneys today were preparing a general complaint against the San Diego Consolidated Gas & Electric Co. demanding lower rates.

This action was advised by Lester S. Ready, consulting engineer with whom the councilmen conferred Thursday before they appeared at the commission.

Councilman Russo said the complaint will be filed Monday. It will demand a revision of all rates, including power, steam, gas and electricity.

WILL ROGERS says:

ABOARD S. S. EMPRESS OF RUSSIA, Dec. 4.—[To the Editor of The Register:] Here is the best war story and it happened on this boat. This fall a Chinaman working on the boat who evidently knew how big China's population was asked the radio man "How she go war?" The radio guy, kidding him, said: "Yesterday Chinese lost 500 men, Japanese three men." Next day Chinaman back "Catchem mo' news?" "Sure, Chinese lost 600 men, Japanese two men." Third day, "What air say bout war today?" "Chinese lose 700, Japanese lost one man."

Chinaman was pleased and said, "Plenty soon be no Japanese left."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS ONE AND INJURES SIXTY

Five Berkeley Citizens in Serious Condition in Hospital Today

BERKELEY, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Five persons lay near death today and three score others were treated for serious injuries as the result of a terrific gas explosion which killed one youth and wrecked a house where firemen were fighting a blaze.

Escaping gas from a broken furnace filled the basement of the house, ignited with a deafening roar and literally blew the building to pieces. Three firemen were caught in the basement, another was blown through the roof and large numbers of bystanders were struck by burning fragments.

Great sheets of blue flame shot into the air and debris was hurled as far as three blocks away; fire enveloped the wreckage surrounding a gaping hole left by the blast, spreading to an adjoining flat where part of a wall and roof already were blown in.

Sherman Pepper, son of a University of California philosophy professor, was standing 10 feet from the scene of the explosion, watching firemen fight the blaze. He was killed instantly.

ORDER START OF WATER BOND TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Refusing to permit the introduction of allegations of fraud in the suit, Superior Judge K. S. Mahon of Sutter county today ordered immediate hearing of arguments on the validation of the $220,000,000 Metropolitan aqueduct bond issue.

Judge Mahon declined to permit attorneys for J. E. Burney, Long Beach taxpayer, to amend their client's action to include assertions that fraud had been perpetrated upon residents of the Metropolitan Water District.

The fraud was said to lie in the district's purported failure to start construction immediately for passage of the bond issue at an election, as Burney asserts the district promised to do. Judge Mahon's action was identical with that taken by Los Angeles jurists before they disqualified themselves.

The validation proceedings, required by law before the bonds can be sold, now will be concerned chiefly with legal arguments on the validity of the bond election.

No indication was given as to the length of time that will be required for completion of the suit.

In ordering the trial to proceed, Judge Mahon said he would permit no delay, saying "this matter is of vital importance to the district and to the thousands to whom it would supply employment."

CAUCUSES OF TWO PARTIES BEING HELD

Most Important Session of Legislative Bodies in Decade to Open Monday

SOLONS ARE SERIOUS

Democrats to Be in Control of House for First Time in Twelve Years

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—(UP)—Party groups are going into their final huddles today and tomorrow preparatory to what is probably the most important session of congress since the war.

Senators and congressmen, here almost in full force now, are more serious, and graver than usual. Everywhere under the capitol dome there is realization that this probably is destined to be a history making congress, carrying momentous responsibilities.

The usual atmosphere of the circus lot, just before the big tent is set up, is missing. Clowning is subdued. Members are weighing their words more carefully. Little wisecracking is heard. There is the sense of a representative body assembling for serious work. Already in the last two weeks there has been more serious deliberation privately among members than is seen often in most of a whole session.

This session of congress, opening Monday, will be marked because:

Bourbons in Control

1—Democrats, in control of the house after 12 years as a minority, will be tested as to their party's capacity to exercise responsibility. The impressions they make will go far toward deciding the mind of the country in the presidential election.

2—Congress will exert a mighty force one way or the other on a nation which is now just getting over dead center in its struggle to overcome the depression.

3—It will, to a large degree, shape the issues on which the presidential election will be fought—the first contest since 1916 in which most politicians anticipate a close race.

4—Congress, by virtue of Democratic control of the house, becomes a more assertive body in legislation than at any time since the war and as it rises toward parity with the White House in this power, its actions gain increasing importance.

Congress Shackled

For the last decade congress has been somewhat shackled by the strong administration control of the house and the prestige the White House gained under the Coolidge regime. It is now returning more toward its place as an arm of the government coordinate with the White House. From now on President Hoover will propose but congress will dispose.

This is the situation in the background which gives exceptional importance to the conferences now going on. Senate Republicans and

CLARENCE KING IS HANGED FOR MURDER

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Clarence King, convicted of slaying his sweetheart, Mrs. Minnie (Micky) McCoy so that he might marry Eunice Pardee, daughter of a wealthy Corvallis, Ore., rancher, died on the prison gallows today.

The trap was sprung at 10:05 a. m.

temporarily to a nearby drug-store, that he admitted to the officers that he had taken a drink in the rear of the grocery store where the seizure took place.

Carr was succeeded on the stand by Earl Wolham, federal dry agent, who made the actual arrest.

Wolham testified that he was standing behind a billboard approximately 25 feet from the rear door of C. R. Dailey's grocery store when he saw Leavitt walk through the rear door with the sack, hesitate for a moment outside, drop the sack and begin to walk away.

He stepped forward then, Wolham said, and asked Leavitt what was in the sack. He said Leavitt replied, "I don't know," and that he then opened the sack, surmised its contents and placed Leavitt under arrest.

Leavitt, a tall heavy-set man of 57 years, was smiling as he entered the small courtroom with his attorney, Moe Fogel. He appeared confident as he took his seat. Later, however, when dry agents were testifying, Leavitt frowned at portions of their recitals.

Mrs. Mary Leavitt, sister of President Hoover, was not in the courtroom, which was packed with neighbors of the family.

MEXICAN LAD BADLY BURNED IN FIRE

Daniel Lopez, one and a half year old son of Encarnacia Lopez, of Tustin, is in a serious condition at the Orange county hospital, suffering from burns received when he fell into a fire yesterday afternoon.

The little boy was with his father and members of the family, pruning walnut trees. The debris was being burned and the child ran into the fire, it was reported.

He suffered severe burns about the feet, arms, legs and face, hospital attendants said.

SHERIFF SELLS CITY GROUND

JANESVILLE, Wis. (UP)—Sheriff's sale of the 46 acres of land comprising the city fairgrounds, located in an exclusive residential section, and buildings worth $50,000, brought the county only $33,570. An average or $750 an acre was bid for the land, while single lots in the vicinity sell for as high as $1000 to $1500. The total price was nearly $1000 less than the amount involved in mortgages on the property.

Alien Laws Not Beneficial To Alien Veterans

The law making it possible for alien veterans of the United States army to complete naturalization within 90 days has become inoperative, it was learned today through Harry Edwards, in charge of veterans welfare work in Orange county.

A story in The Register some time ago based on a Sacramento dispatch, quoted James I. Herz, deputy director of the department of public works at Sacramento, to the effect that the 90 days naturalization was possible for alien veterans. In a letter to Edwards, Herz has just explained that the law became inoperative on March 4, 1931.

The best thing for alien veterans to do if they have not already filed their first papers is to do so at once, Herz said in the letter, and it will take two years to complete the process unless congress sees fit to re-enact the 90 day law.

Little hope was held for the recovery of Fire Chief George Haggerty, 50, of Berkeley, Firemen E. A. Maxwell and E. P. Clarry, and John O'Brien, of Mare Island, a laborer. The firemen were in the house at the time of the explosion and were burned and crushed.

Child Is Injured

Peggy Skytte, 10, another bystander, was among the critically injured. She was at first reported dead. Firemen also reported one of their number had been killed but this was found incorrect.

Lieut. Norman L. Saunders, naval officer attached to the R. O. T. C. at the university and owner of the house, received serious injuries when he joined firemen to fight the blaze.

Saunders said that shortly after he came home last evening he heard a small explosion and found that his gas furnace was afire. Three alarms were turned in while the flames spread to upper floors.

Chief Haggerty and Capt. William O'Connor led a crew into the basement. O'Connor believes the gas pipe was broken by a fireman wielding an ax.

"I smelled gas escaping and shouted to the men to beat it," O'Connor said. "Chief Haggerty and James Davis stayed behind after the others. We were just leaving when the gas caught."

All three were blown out of the basement and Haggerty was probably fatally injured. Davis and O'Connor suffered serious injuries and burns.

60 Spectators Hurt

Most of the injured, numbering more than 60, were in the crowd that collected to watch the fire. They were gathered closely around the building and only the fact that the force of the blast was directed upward saved many from death, police said.

Utmost confusion prevailed at the scene of the accident and at the three Berkeley hospitals where the dying and injured were taken. Some of the injured were piled into private cars before ambulances arrived and then were driven from one hospital to another trying to gain admittance to crowded wards.

Prof. L. C. Gilbert of the university education department and his wife and baby narrowly escaped death when they ran from their adjoining house just as the explosion occurred. The wall and roof of Gilbert's home were blown in.

The Saunders house was located near the university campus and most of the bystanders were students. Those who were not injured took part in rescue work.

Twenty of the injured were children ranging from three to 16 years in age.

Many others were injured but were able to leave the hospitals after first aid treatment.

FINED FOR SPEEDING

Egenro Topia, Santa Ana, charged with speeding, was fined $15 in the city police court yesterday. He paid $10 and the balance is due on January 1, the court records show.

MOTIVE FOR CHARGE SHOWN IN TESTIMONY

Evidence produced so far in the hearing in the city council chambers in which Attorney N. D. Meyer has accused Attorney W. M. Burke of soliciting business, stood out today against a background which heretofore had been merely suggested—the background of its relation to the 1929 investigation of Court Interpreter Charles Carrillo.

The atmosphere of this situation on which Referee Eugene Daney admitted testimony, was brought out by Lucas Lucio, representative here for the Mexican consul at Los Angeles, who has been interpreted and serving processes for Burke, and who was questioned by D. G. Wettlin, of the defense counsel.

Lucio's testimony showed that a large volume of Mexican business came naturally to Burke after the Carrillo affair because of their trust in the attorney, and because the Mexican counsel had instructed him to refer Mexicans needing advice to Burke.

Gives History

In his story Lucio went back to 1927, when, in his work as a collector among the Mexican people, he said some of them were unable to pay their bills, having had dealings with Carrillo when they were in trouble and having paid the latter for his services.

Lucio eventually was advised by his employer to see the late Walter Gregg, formerly welfare commissioner of Orange county, who told him to see the Mexican consul, he said, with a view to solving the problem. Consul Pesqueira, who at that time was in the Los Angeles office, advised him to seek help in organizing his people and later at a meeting in Santa Ana Lucio was elected president of the Mexican honorary commission which was organized.

In August, 1929, Lucio read in The Register about an investigation of Carrillo which was under way. He informed the consul and received a letter from him at his office authorizing him to co-operate with The Register, he said.

Consular Representative

The letter requested Lucio, as representative here for the consul, to assist the persons conducting the investigation and inform the consul of the findings and all data that might be of service in pressing the charges in case they were found to be justified.

Working with Register representatives, Lucio interviewed more than 100 Mexicans and secured more than 25 affidavits, he said.

Later the board of supervisors held a hearing. The board of supervisors retained Carrillo "for the good of the Mexican people" after much evidence had been introduced, a good part of which never was contradicted or denied.

After the hearing many Mexican people came to see Lucio for help and on the consul's advice, that Burke was an attorney sympathetic toward the Mexican people from whom he could seek counsel, he took them to Burke, Lucio said. He has continued to do so when those needing legal assistance have come to him. Consul Pesqueira and Consul de la Colina, his successor, already have testified during the hearing that they recommended Burke because of his philanthropic interest in their people here.

Tells Purpose

Wettlin pointed out that this evidence was brought out not to retry the Carrillo matter but to show the atmosphere existing between Burke and the Mexican people which followed that affair.

Meyer, the complaining witness, is a friend of Carrillo, acted as one of his attorneys in the libel suit Carrillo later brought against The Register as a result of the investigation and which resulted in complete exoneration for the Register, and has admitted that Carrillo has referred business to him.

Pointing out that Lucio has been more or less on trial in this case because he was accused of soliciting business, Wettlin yesterday introduced testimony from Loren Smith, Orange attorney, to the effect that he once met Lucio in the county hospital while he was visiting a client there and that Lucio offered to assist in any way possible, pointing out that he took this interest as consular representative.

Mrs. Aurelia Pimental de Ruiz, of Talbert, was another witness who testified yesterday that Meyer had given her son a card, which she said was similar to one already introduced in which Meyer offered his services to the Mexican people as an attorney. Meyer had consulted her son, Andreas Ruiz, about representing another son, Valentin Ruiz, on a criminal charge, and presented a note from the prisoner. Meyer wanted $100 and Ruiz was able to produce only $20, the mother said. Meyer gave her son the card and told him if they wanted to hire him they could look him up, Mrs. Ruiz said.

CONGRESS TO OPEN SESSIONS MONDAY NOON

senate Democrats each arranged to meet today to decide on their organization slates. Numerous personalities are involved, the most striking development being the effort of Republican Progressives to unseat Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire, as the speaker pro tempore, the officer who substitutes for the vice president. It carried both honor and influence. Republican Progressives still are resentful of the way Moses characterized them as "sons of the wild jackass."

Underlying Issue

The underlying issue here is whether these Republicans who hold the balance of power in a narrowly divided senate, in seeking to have their revenge, will precipitate an intra-party fight which will result in their losing some influential chairmanships and perhaps being thrown in the arms of the Democrats on crucial roll calls later, when the issue will be that of supporting the legislation passed by the Democratic house. It is a highly technical affair but it holds political possibilities of the most far reaching character.

House Democrats hold their caucus tomorrow night. They are expected to select John N. Garner, Texas, as their candidate for speaker and to consider proposals to liberalize the rules of the house which have enabled a handful of men to dictate its actions. This too is technical but likewise involves far-reaching policies—one of them being the question of whether congress will be allowed to carry the prohibition issue to a real showdown.

Approximately $225,000 has been paid out through the Rosenberg Bros. and Company packing plant at Orange, since the opening of the walnut season this fall, it was revealed at the plant this morning. MORE PROPERTY RECOVERED IN VEILBURG CASE

Two handsome rugs and a set of velour drapes, found in the effects of Mrs. D. Estelle Veilburg, 40, arrested for Santa Ana authorities, on a grand theft charge in Hollywood Wednesday, have been identified as property of the Chandler Furniture company here, it was announced today.

The rugs and drapes were returned to Santa Ana last night and identified as articles taken from the Chandler store "on approval" last summer by Mrs. Veilburg. After the rugs were taken by the woman, she disappeared, officers said.

Mrs. Veilburg was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison today on a charge of grand theft in connection with the asserted theft of a $295 fur coat from the Euling Fur shop on Broadway, this alleged theft being the cause of her return to Santa Ana after her arrest in Hollywood.

Bail of $5000 was asked in her case, which she did not make and her preliminary examination on the charge was set for December 9.

The coat was stolen here last August according to a report made and a search which has been made throughout the United States has been conducted by the sheriff's office since that time.

TAX COLLECTOR RUSHED WITH FINAL PAYMENT

Thousands of letters were pouring into the office of County Tax Collector John Lamb today as Orange county property owners made a final rush to avoid delinquency on their payments. Hundreds of persons were paying their bills in person at the office.

Including all money received up to last night the office has taken in $1,090,267.72 out of approximately $4,045,000 due for collection on the December payments, which will become delinquent tomorrow.

A mountain of unopened mail awaited the force of clerks in the office today, which is being handled as fast as possible. The impossibility of finding a given letter in this pile, or of locating it at any point in its route through the office was apparent. Lamb requested that tax payers refrain from seeking information at this time as to whether a letter has been received, as it is impossible to locate it without disrupting the routine of the office.

A great many of those who came to the office came for the purpose of adjusting various difficulties. There is a clerk at every window giving the best and most prompt service possible, Lamb said, again complimenting the tax payers on their patience and courtesy in transacting their business.

Some 30,000 payments remain to be made, Collector Lamb estimated.

LOCAL BUILDERS AT POMONA FOR MEET

Members of the Orange County Builders Exchange who attended a contractors' meeting held last night at Pomona under auspices of the Builders Exchange Conference of Southern California, heard the new License Law for Contratcors outlined by Col. C. W. Huntington. Orange county contractors attending the session were: Walter Sorenson, president of the Orange County Builders Exchange; E. D. Alumbaugh and Frederic Sanford, secretary of the organization, of Santa Ana; A. D. Moody, V. D. Kisner, E. A. Clark and George W. Thoman, Fullerton.

Colonel Huntington who is director of the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards and registrar of contractors outlined the new license law in detail and answered questions asked relative to the measure.

Mano Van, secretary of the Los Angeles Builders' Exchange, spoke and outlined the advisability of organizing an exchange in the Pomona valley. Plans were started last night that will result in such an organization shortly after January 1.

SCHOOL JANITOR GETS PROBATION

Stephen Poras, Santa Ana school janitor, was granted probation for 90 days and given a 30-day county jail sentence today when he appeared before Superior Judge James Allen after having pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge.

Poras was tried on a manslaughter charge several weeks ago and the jury was deadlocked six to six. He later pleaded guilty to the reckless driving count and the former charge was dropped.

W. Maxwell Burke, attorney for Poras, attempted to secure testimony today from Richard White as to his knowledge of the manner in which Paul Winkler, deceased Tustin youth, habitually rode the motorcycle on which he was at the time it collided with Poras' car at Main street and Central avenue, Delhi, on September 20, after which Winkler died. Deputy District Attorney Leo Friis objected and it appeared from Burke's reply that White would have testified that Winkler usually drove rather rapidly,

V. F. W., LEGION INSTALL FOOD BARRELS HERE

Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion announced installation of "food barrels" in Santa Ana markets today. The V. F. W. barrels are for the purpose of extending relief to the needy regardless of whether they are veterans or members of veterans' families, according to Commander William Kelsey of Kellogg Post No. 1680, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Food secured through the Legion barrels will be turned over to the Salvation Army for families of the unemployed.

Kelsey said that barrels bearing the initials "V. F. W." will be found in the following stores: both Fourth street stores operated by the Alpha Beta Food Market; two in the Grand Central Market, one each in the West End grocery, Griffith's, First and Lacy; Monty's Grocery, 811 Highland avenue, and Peterson's Santa Ana Market, Fairview and Main streets.

Following installation of the rels Commander Kelsey said that Veterans of Foreign Wars are urging the citizens of Santa Ana to endorse the plan by contributing food stuffs. He said that if people will, when buying food for their own families, have in mind the need of others, and purchase an extra can or package of food and drop it into the V. F. W. barrel they can be assured that it will reach some deserving family or person who, under ordinary conditions would be providing these necessities for themselves.

Kelsey said that it is the purpose of the post to co-operate to the fullest with other welfare organizations now operating in the city. The plan, he said, has the endorsement and support of the department officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The plan had its inception in the Long Beach post, V. F. W. and met with instant response there and received the highest commendation from city officials and citizens alike.

According to Henry Rasmussen, chairman of the welfare committee of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, barrels have been installed in 25 groceries by his organization. The barrels, in addition to the Legion legend, bear the motto "Buy Two and Drop One."

Contributions to the Legion barrels will be collected daily and delievered to needy families of the unemployed each evening.

Pigeons Hungry: Raid Field

This depression is getting F. J. English, of Santa Ana, Route No. 5, down.

Pigeons who can't find enough to eat are swarming his field, he reported yesterday.

English was busy sowing grain, but the pigeons were eating it up faster than he could harrow it under. He thought the police might be able to do something about it.

Reunions and Picnics

Mrs. D. Winterbourne of Tustin is calling attention to all former residents of Simla, Colo., now living in Orange county, of a picnic to be held at Montebello Park Sunday December 6. She is urging all former residents of that community to bring a basket lunch and attend the gathering.

Use of gas masks and the dangers of gas poisoning are taught in a school in Germany.

SEWAGE REPORT CONSIDERED BY FARM BUREAU

The board of directors of the Orange County Farm bureau today had under consideration a report by Ralph McFadden, of Placentia, chairman of its water committee, in regard to the investigation just completed by R. F. Goudey, Los Angeles engineer, on the feasibility of sewage water reclamation on a general plan in this section. McFadden reported to the board at its meeting yesterday in the Farm Bureau offices, but officials declined to make public contents of the report at this time.

A sub committee headed by O. E. Steward, of Anaheim, is studying Goudey's report in detail with the idea of adjusting some of the factors involved. Cost factors in relation to savings for various districts are being considered by this group, which hopes to have a report for the board's next meeting.

The general committee has been divided into three sub committees. The one headed by Steward has to do with sewage water reclamation. Other members are W. C. Mauerhan, of Katella, and McFadden, of Placentia.

Another group has to do with supply and use of water in Orange county. It is headed by D. D. Waynick, of Anaheim and Santa Ana. Other members are L. J. Bushard, of Talbert, and John Knudson, of La Habra.

The third group will work on flood control and conservation of flood waters. E. E. Campbell, of Orange, is chairman. Other members are E. J. Lewis, of Yorba Linda, and Henry Burdorf, of Fullerton.

R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Farm Bureau, reported to the board on progress being made in negotiations with gun clubs over the question of water conservation. The clubs are trying to organize a committee for carrying on the negotiations and it is expected that another conference will be held some time this month.

SEAL BEACH CITY CLERK ASKS DECREE

Ollie B. Padrick, city clerk of Seal Beach, had filed suit for divorce today from her husband, William F. Padrick, in superior court here. The complaint charged desertion and failure to provide during the past year.

The couple married in 1906 at Long Beach and separated on November 1, 1931, the complaint said. A property settlement has been made, the complaint stated.

Boys' Tour of World Ended By Officers

With $6.40 which they found, Earl Chisam, 13, and Eugene Watson, 15, both of Pomona, set out to see the world. They reached San Pedro by begging rides but when they were refused permission to visit the battleships, decided to visit San Diego. They stopped in Laguna Beach and as a result, their adventure came to an end.

Motorcycle Officer Ernest B. Pyke, found that the boys had been sleeping on the beach at night. They were brought to the juvenile home in Santa Ana.

ARRESTS HERE MAY BREAK UP "BUNCO" RING

Arrest of B. M. Gregory, 38, and Jack E. Curley, 37, at San Clemente on charges of impersonating federal officers has broken up a gang of criminals who planned a rich harvest during the Olympic Games, police authorities declared today.

Gregory, said to be a six-time loser, and Curley, who, officers say, has served numerous terms in the Los Angeles jail, have been taken to Los Angeles, where they will be prosecuted for allegedly taking money from two Japanese farmers near Laguna Beach on the pretense that they were federal officers and would "forget all about your rice wine."

Plans of Curley and Gregory for "business" during the Olympic Games were disclosed when Motorcycle Officer Ernest B. Pyke, in searching for narcotics in Curley's car at Laguna Beach, found a concealed love letter addressed to Curley from a girl who signed herself "Mary."

The writer outlined a scheme for making money during the big athletic events, being held in Southern California next year, with a resultant influx of many rich visitors.

According to Deputy Sheriff F. M. Dean, Los Angeles records show that Gregory has served time at McNeill's island, San Quentin, Leavenworth and Washington State prisons. Curley has been in the Los Angeles jail on narcotic counts, Dean said.

Gregory and Curley were arrested at San Clemente by Chief of Police Harry Comber, after Abe Johnson, chief at Laguna Beach, had phoned him to stop the men. The Japanese farmers, S. Sakamato and George Ishide, appeared at the store of K. D. Miller near Laguna and asked for the loan of $100. When the Japanese told the storekeeper that two officers were outside, he became suspicious and gave Chief Johnson the license number of their car.

SUGGEST WAYS TO MAKE JOBS FOR WORKLESS

During a discussion of plans for unemployment relief at the session of the official board of the First Christian church this week, the problem of securing some project or series of public improvements that would meet with approval of the entire community was injected.

As a result several suggestions were made by various members of the board, which those present agreed would no doubt meet the approval of all sections of the city in the development of jobs for unemployed, it is reported.

It was pointed out that in parking strips between curbs and walks in many sections of the city, weeds are getting started which should be cleaned out before they ripen and scatter seeds. One member of the board reported that ther was quite a strip of Johnson grass in the parking along Eighth street between Olive and Garnsey streets, which should be removed at once.

Another suggestion was that Flower street could be opened, using all manual labor and that this would provide work for a considerable number. The opening of Flower street between Eighth and Sixth streets has long been considered by city authorities.

Other suggestions which members of the board felt would meet approval of the citizens of the city would be to clean out street gutters where they have been overgrown with weeds or grass, and especially at points where street markers were thus obstructed. Trimming trees throughout the city was also suggested.

New Fixtures And Hangings at Dress Shop Attractive

Distinctly in line with the community spirit which has arranged that Santa Ana streets and shops be made unusually attractive for the Christmas holiday season, is the remodeling process just completed at the Singer Dress shop, 423 North Sycamore street, making that little specialty shop for women, one of the most modern and attractive in the city.

New woodwork and fixtures on the interior, with hangings of deep wine-colored velvet, and chandeliers sparkling with cut-glass prisms form a pleasing background for the display of frocks of every description including those for formal evening wear, tailored suits and wraps, some with heavy fur trimmings, others of the popular sports variety.

The twi big windows have received a new decorative treatment in woodwork and velvet draperies, and the introduction of wrought-iron gateways from each window to the main floor of the store, is a harmonious feature.

Mrs. Myrtle Robinson, manager of the shop, has as her staff of assistants, Mrs. Nola Greenleaf, Miss Katherine Emerich and Miss Mabel Rosenberger. Mrs. Robinson is active in the Business and Professional Women's club.

ORANGE COUNTY GROWERS GET BIGGEST CHECKS

Orange county growers of calavos and less distinctive California select avocados are receiving the final payment this week from the $86,045.53 "extra dividend" for the 1931 season which is additional to the regular pool payments and the revolving fund credit, announced C. H. Young, Calavo Growers' association treasurer today.

A total of $34,162.54 is being distributed this week to some 816 growers throughout Southern California, the largest individual checks coming to this county. About $1.10 is being paid per box for the season additional to the regular pool payments and the credit.

Production moved up 526 per cent during the 1931 season over that of the preceding season, Calavo figures indicate. A total of 78,625 field boxes of calavos and less distinctive California avocados were produced for this dividend.

Calavos from Orange county largely made up the first shipment to Paris which left this week by rail for New York City, from where they will go by liner, under special refrigeration, to Europe for Christmas salad creations. Locally grown fruit will also be found throughout most of the United States this Christmas for the first time.

WOOLEN MILL HERE MAY BE REOPENED SOON

With litigation, planned to eliminate former connections and clear up business offairs of the bankrupt California Woolen Mills, successfully completed, a deal is now pending that, if successful, will result in re-opening of the Santa Ana plant which has been closed since last fall, according to George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Possibility of the mills being reopened here has been an open secret for the past six months, or since the commencement of an action by outside capitalists to foreclose mortgages against property of the bankrupt firm. At that time it was said there was the probability of an outside group, in no way connected with the former management of the factory, taking over operation of the plant.

Raymer said today that officials of the company considering reopening of the mills are planning a trip to Santa Ana within the next 10 days or two weeks for the purpose of making a survey of the local situation. Raymer said that if conditions appear satisfactory to these officials it is probable that they will make a definite announcement as to the future of the property here and possibility of reopening it as a woolen mill. Until this survey is completed, he said, nothing definite can be announced.

Officials of this group have been in touch with the local situation, through Raymer, since action to secure control of the property was started several months ago and, if the decision is made to open the plant, will authorize a definite statement of their plans which at present are delayed pending the result of the survey to be made within the next two weeks.

The Case of the Missing Sandals

By Nancy Barr Mavity

SYNOPSIS

Murder has been done at the colony of fanatics, headed by the beautiful but dissolute "priestess" who calls herself Luna. It is Luna herself who has been killed. Peter Piper, California newspaper reporter, beat the police to the scene. He noticed that the sandals which the beautiful Luna usually wore were missing—nor could they be found anywhere about the place. Earl Vincent, a likeable sort of chap who had fallen under Luna's spell, is the chief suspect., Vincent's former fiancee, Ruth Morgan, believes in him. So does Peter. The reporter runs down one clue after another, with no results. Suspicion points first at one of Luna's dupes and then another. It is proved that she and her husband, Merrill Anthony, from whom she was separated, maintained a joint checking account and ran a "dope" peddling business. When Peter brings this to light, Anthony commits suicide. So does a man named Tanner, who was seeking revenge because Luna had defrauded him out of $20,000, his life savings. Nothing seems to break right to prove Vincent's innocence. When Vincent is arraigned, an old man named Amos Perkins, who says he is Luna's father, enters the case. Perkins says he "cursed" his daughter for her evil ways, and seems to think that was responsible for her death. Then a convict named Basker, who writes racketeer stories, says he was with Earl Vincent on the night of the murder, which looks like an alibi for the accused. Peter gets a tip from a fellow police reporter on the Herald that the authorities are out after another suspect, and that suspect is Charlie Russell, a slow-witted youth in Luna's colony, who believed Luna to be a witch. The weak-minded youth gives out a confession to the effect that he had stabbed Luna, and then when he had gone outside, had fired at her with a rifle, to make doubly sure of her death. Peter doubts Russell's confession, because Russell says he knew nothing about Luna's missing sandals. Peter and a press photographer go to Luna's estate on a search for the sandals.

"The shoes struck me from the very beginning as the queerest note in the lot. There were various possible ways of explaining everything else, but the shoes were unique. They were downright inexplicable. So I plowed my way through all the books on superstition and magic I could lay my hands on to find the key to those shoes.

"Talk about sleuthing! The real sleuthing in this case was done in the public library. I found the answer Sunday, while we were hanging around waiting for Russell's confession."

"What was it?" Andrews was still only half convinced of the import of Peter's library researches.

"I found it in a book called 'Witches Still Live'—it was a modern case, too. The shoes of a murder victim had been removed and were finally found on the shore buried between high and low tide. They had nothing to do with the crime.

"It was the policeman who was first on the scene who had carefully deposited the shoes 'under running water' in accordance with an old charm, because otherwise the victim of violent death would rise up and do some haunting. And that, mind you, was in 1926!"

"And you think somebody put Luna's shoes in the creek for the same reason? I begin to see the light."

"Not only that, but the person who did it was the murderer. It couldn't have been the policeman in this case. In the first place, Willie Hames and I were at the scene as soon as Oleson, and the shoes were already gone then.

"In the second place, it doesn't fit his temperament. If Oleson has any superstitions, they'd be only the obvious ones—thirteen at the table or picking up a pin for luck, things like that. He'd never go in for the more recondite forms of magic."

"Mut even if you find the shoes, I don't see that you're any nearer to finding out who put them there," Andrews objected.

"At least I know one or two people who didn't," Peter answered. "It rules out Miller and Anthony and Tanner. Their connection with Luna has no relation to the witchcraft angle.

"It also rules out Amos Perkins—he'd believe in a Biblical curse, but not in a pagan spell. And it rules out Russell because, while Russell bright enough actor to fake such perfect blankness as he showed when I caught him off guard."

"But if all those are checked off the list, who is left?" Andrews asked.

"I don't know yet, but I hope to find out. Those shoes have to be kept under moving water, or Luna's spook will be rising to confront her murderer.

"The water in this creek has been diminishing for the last two weeks. Whoever put the shoes there is going to keep a close watch on them, for fear they'll be left high and dry. I imagine he comes down here pretty regularly. Of course other people may come, too—the man I'm after will have to fit the other known facts.

"But I've an independent check on that—that is, if the hunch I've got is correct. That's why I made you drag the camera along. Here, look out or you'll get your camera wet!"

Peter reached out a sustaining arm as Andrews suddenly slipped sidewise, almost losing his footing as he lurched forward, splashing through the shallow water.

"Hold these!" Andrews cried, thrusting the camera and tripod into Peter's hands. "Here they are. I've got 'em!"

He held up two black and dripping objects.

"They were still under water, all right."

"Well, they won't be, any longer. Give them here." Peter held out his hand for the sodden black satin sandals. "Take your camera."

He wiped the shoes as dry as possible against the sleeve of his coat and laid them in a conspicuous position on the top of a boulder above the water line.

"Now we're all set," he said, surveying the newly placed shoes with gratification. "The wading's over and we can just stroll along and view the scenery.

"We don't want to make too much noise about it—quiet but casual is our motto. You'll have to hang on to the camera, in order to be ready, but I'll lug the tripod."

For a quarter of a mile they trudged on in silence. Then, around a turn in the curving creek bed, they heard the sound of advancing footsteps through the brush.

Peter beckoned to the camera man and set up the tripod on a level bit of ground, motioning Andrews, with a warning for silence, to place the camera on the stand. Then he strolled forward, and Andrews heard his voice raised in greeting just beyond the turn.

"Good morning!" he said cordially. "We've met before, you remember. Nice to see you again. I want you to meet my friend Andrews."

In another moment Peter reappeared, arm in arm with a thin, sallow young man, whose pale eyes looked vaguely startled. The reporter's attitude seemed natural, if somewhat over-familiar—but Andrews happened to know that Peter was chary of gestures of intimacy, and seldom took even his best friends by the arm.

"We've been working hard on this case, and now that it's over, we've been given a day off," Peter chattered on. "Andrews is crazy about taking landscape photographs in his leisure hours—like the postman's holiday, you know. He simply loves to drag his camera around."

Andrews repressed a snort of derision at this description of his enthusiasm for scenery and for carrying his heavy camera on unnecessary jaunts.

"Andrews, this is Mr. Carey. Take a good look at him. He's the white-haired boy just now. He'll most likely get the $5000 reward for leading the police to Luna's murderer."

Carey's shoulders twitched in a brief shudder.

"I don't want any money," he said. "My interests lie more in spiritual than in material things."

"Well, a corpse is a fairly material thing, for a fact. Are you interested in photography, by any chance?"

"Not very."

"Well, you won't escape having to pretend you are. Andrews is trying out a new focusing device, and he's as crazy over it as a child with a pair of new shoes. He's already victimized me.

"He'll never let you rest till he's made you look through it and shown you how it works. Isn't that right, Andrews?"

Peter, still holding Carey firmly by the arm, had gradually advanced till they stood near the tripod. Andrews barely suppressed a squeal as Peter delivered a swift and apparently accidental kick on his shin.

"Sure, that's right. Step around here, Mr. Carey. You look through the finder here, and move this gauge along—"

Carey, finding himself crowded forward between the two men, bent reluctantly over the instrument.

"You sight it just the same as a gun," Peter remarked helpfully.

Carey glanced up over his shoulder and paused indecisively. The chatter of a squirrel in the branches overhead was suddenly loud in the hush that fell on the little group.

"Go ahead. There's nothing to be afraid of—it won't kill you," Peter urged with jocular emphasis.

Carey wavered an instant, then lowered his head to the level of the camera. Peter exhaled his breath in a long, audible sigh.

"Very pretty," Carey said politely.

"Yes, isn't it? We'll stroll along with you a little way and you can point out the best spots for pictures. I suppose you come down this way often, living so near and all?"

"Not very often." Without knowing exactly how he had become involved in the party, Carey found himself strolling along the margin of the creek, his arm still firmly linked in Peter's.

"The water's getting very shallow," Peter remarked. "The stream dries up altogether in the summer."

Carey turned quickly. His face in the strong morning light was gray. The hollows beneath his cheekbones were patches of shadow.

"No," he contradicted in a curious breathless voice. "No, there's always water here."

"Positively not," Peter contradicted gaily. "You can see for yourself how the water's falling. Look there!" he pointed with an outstretched finger.

"Here's something that must have been under moving water, and you see, it's high and dry now."

Peter thrust his leg backward, delivering another well aimed kick on Andrews' ankle before he dropped Carey's arm in order to stoop forward.

"You see!" he said triumphantly. "Somebody's tried to drown a pair of shoes, but here they are."

He waved the sandals in the air in front of Carey as he spoke.

Carey staggered backward.

"Put them—put them back," he stammered.

Smart SHOPPING

"How good is it?"

That's it!

ABOUT anything and everything they buy, smart shoppers like to ask one question—"How good is it?"

Chesterfield welcomes smokers who buy their cigarettes that way.

OUR tobacco buyers are smart shoppers, too. They "shop" for the ripest, mildest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows. And they won't take anything else.

"How good" are Chesterfields? Well, consider their blending.

Blended and cross-blended . . . not merely mixed together. Blended first by crops and countries . . . then cross-blended again and again . . . to produce a flavor and aroma that are Chesterfield's alone.

That's how we get that better taste . . . that's why Chesterfields are milder. Even the paper they're rolled in is the whitest, cleanest and purest that money can buy.

And the package . . . clean, bright, fresh-looking . . . see how easily it opens, yet how tightly it's sealed.

OPEN a package. Note the aroma . . . delicious foretaste of pleasure ahead.

Now—pull out a Chesterfield . . . round, firm, well-filled.

"HOW good is it?" Light up . . . then you tell us!

Milder? Right! Taste better? You bet they do! They're pure, too—and they certainly do satisfy!

Good . . . they've got to be good! There's value here. We know, because we put it in . . . and you'll smoke it out with every one you light.

CAST SELECTED FOR PLAYERS' PRODUCTION

Promising an unusually strong cast which will include many who have scored success in earlier plays, Gladys Simpson Shafer, director of the second Santa Ana Community Players' production of the season, today announced the names of those members of the association who have accepted roles in the play, "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," scheduled for production on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, January 28, 29 and 30, in Ebell auditorium.

The choice of Mona Summers Smith to play the leading part of "Mrs. Cheney," has aroused much favorable comment from those who recall Mrs. Smith's delightful work in "Seventh Heaven," "Enter Madame," "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire," and various other local productions. Among others chosen for the cast who have done notable work in past plays, attention seems directed first to Warren Fletcher who will play "Lord Arthur Dilling."

Juanita Wright Fletcher will take the part of "Lady Joan Haughton;" Julia A. Hyde will play "Lady Maria Frinton;" Miss Margaret Gaebe will enact "The Honorable Miss Wynton;" Earl Fraser will play "Charles" (the butler); Joseph Peterson will be "The Honorable Willie;" and Ted Roth will play "Jim," the chauffeur.

Each of these Players has appeared in a previous offering of the Santa Ana Community Players, while those who will take part in their first local production, will include Bradford Bond as "George," (a footman); Dr. H. J. Howard as "William" (a footman); and Edith Ellis in the part of "Mary Sindley." Mrs. Ellis had extensive dramatic work while a student at Pomona college, and last year played the lead in the college production of "Outward Bound" and "To the Ladies." Bradford Bond is a newcomer to the city, but appeared in various plays while a student at University of Michigan.

Three roles remain unfilled, those of "Lord Elton," "Mrs. Ebley," and "Roberts," Mrs. Ebley's butler. Mrs. Shafer hopes to complete her cast tonight, when the Players meet in The Barn for their first attempt at a rehearsal. It is her plan to start rehearsing the cast at once in order to allow for the break in activities during the Christmas holidays.

The sophisticated comedy of "The Last of Mrs. Cheney" provides one of the most difficult plays yet attempted by the association, it is reported.

INCREASE IN AVATION USE TOLD TO LIONS

Passenger travel by air has increased more than 30 per cent in the past four years, with more than 400,000 persons traveling by air last year over established air routes, according to Dudley M. Steele, manager of the aviation department of Richfield Oil company and chairman of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce aviation committee.

The statement was made in the course of an interesting talk on aviation progress, given by Steele yesterday noon before the Santa Ana Lions club, with Henry Williams and Gil Ward program committeemen for the day.

Steele traveled to Santa Ana by airplane yesterday, making the Los Angeles-Santa Ana trip in 161-2 minutes. He traveled in a plane with 475 horsepower motor, as compared with 90 h. p. motors in his first peace ship used in 1919, which was similar to the war planes.

Th efive factors stressed in air transportation today, said the speaker, are safety, convenience, comfort, speed, and economy. Showing the safety of air travel today, Steele said 25 million miles are traveled by air to one person killed, or one fatality to 272 trips around the world at the equator.

There are seven regular air transport lines out of Los Angeles, with three great transcontinental lines, providing an approximate 30-hour service to New York City.

One million air mail letters are flown each day in the United States, Steele reported, with the airmail planes carrying a total of eight and a half million pounds of air mail last year. The growth of the airmail service was shown by the statement that when the service was inaugurated in 1919, 400 miles daily were flown, and this has now increased to 167,000 miles every 24 hours, and with 38 per cent of this flying being done at night.

Motors and planes have been improved to the very highest point possible, and aviation equapment and employes are under the strictest supervision regarding safety. So effective is this campaign for air safety that 60 per cent of the accidents have been due to the human element, rather than to structural failures of equipment used.

Next week's Lions program will be in charge of Homer Chaney and Dr. E. H. Rowland, district governor.

COAL PLAQUE PAYS DEBT

California and Pennsylvania American Legion officials made a membership wager last year, the loser in a membership campaign to acknowledge defeat by a tribute in some state product. California won, and Pennsylvania paid with this piece of anthracite coal, carved and polished into a highly desirable trophy.

COUNTY PRINCIPALS WILL MEET MONDAY

The Orange County Principals association will meet at 7 p. m. next Monday in Ketner's cafe, it was announced today by County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson. There are approximately 30 members of the organization and in addition district school superintendents have been invited to attend.

Helen Heffernan, state supervisor of rural schools, will address the group.

Personal Liberty W.C.T.U. Subject

TUSTIN, Dec. 4.—"Personal Liberty and Prohibition", an interesting article written by Frances Willard, was read by Miss Florence Stone at yesterday's regular meeting of the Tustin W. C. T. U. which was held in the parlor of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Margaret Utt gave a sketch of the life of Miss Willard and Mrs. Kate C. Ebel and Mrs. Elizabeth Miller gave anecdotes of the famous woman's life.

Included also on the program, which was arranged by Mrs. Mary A. Preble, were vocal solos by Miss Marion Leihy and Mrs. Jessie Johnson and violin solos by Miss Pauline Crawford. They were accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude Carswell at the piano. Mrs. Helen Finley, president, presided at the business session and the devotionals were in charge of Mrs. M. C. Pollard.

Those present were Mesdames Helen Finley, Margaret Utt, M. C. Pollard, Mary A. Preble, Elizabeth Miller, Kate C. Ebel, Lorena Kyle, Bertha Flint, Edith Crawford, Gertrude Carswell, Jessie Johnson and the Misses Florence Stone, Pauline Crawford and Marion Leihy.

WIFE VALUED AT $5

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., — George Youmans, of Greycourt, valued his wife at $5, he asserted in court during a separation action brought by Mrs. Youmans. He said his wife signed an agreement a year ago whereby she was to leave him forever on payment of $5. She denied this.

MOOSE BAND TO PARTICIPATE IN ROSE PARADE

The band of the Santa Ana Moose lodge No. 1025 has accepted an invitation to participate in the Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena on New Years day and not less than 40 players will march in the big display, it was learned today. The band is under the leadership of Bandmaster Ted Collins. Members are being added each week and it is expected that the organization will number 50 pieces within the next few weeks.

On last Tuesday night a class initiation was held and all new members were added. They were Franklin G. West, Grover C. Spray, L. R. Glover, Thomas Glover, Robert R Glover, Joseph W. May, Robert W. Griffith and Samuel Gish, of Santa Ana; Dr. Paul E. Rumph, K. H Smith and Lovett Hinton, of Orange. According to District Deputy Supervisor M. L. Cash, in charge of the membership campaign, much enthusiasm is being shown in the drive.

The Moose drill team, under the direction of Drill Captain Alfred E. Ray, also is adding new members and will be ready to compete in contests with the best teams in Southern California within the next few weeks according to Ray.

The regular monthly social meeting will be held next Tuesday night and the entertainment committee is making plans for the event. It will be open to all Moose, their families and friends. The following Tuesday night will be the time of the next meeting and a large class will be initiated.

Millions of Smelt Off Pier at H. B.; Octopus Is Landed

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 4.—Millions of jacksmelt were swarming about the municipal pier yesterday in schools which were at times 100 to 200 feet square. About the schools of smelt played larger fish and shark Near the shore the corbina were wallowing in the water in search of soft shell crabs.

Fishermen enjoyed other sport at the pier this week. A woman caught an octopus yesterday While its tenacles had a spread of 10 or 12 inches, its body was smaller than a cocoanut. Its ugly eyes protruded an inch from its head. Once landed on the pier and turned over on its back, were revealed the vacuum cups which enable it to make an unbreaable grip on whatever the cups contact.

An octopus is a rare catch here. No large ones are caught but in waters further south an octopus might be dangerous to a swimmer. Another rare specimen of fish caught yesterday on the pier was a sun fish. The one caught from the pier was small, weighing only about 12 pounds. It was exhibited to those on the pier for a brief period and then tossed back into the water in the hope it would live.

W.C.T.U. MEMBERS AT BROWN REVIVAL

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 4.—Delegations from West Orange county and Anaheim attended the John Brown revival in Garden Grove last night.

The Orange County W. C. T. U. members sang "Rescue the Perishing." The duet by Mr. and Mrs. Irvine German, of Garden Grove, was an outstanding feature of the service.

Attendance at the cottage prayer meetings is growing, it was announced today. Business men of the community meet each morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Adams Furniture company store for a prayer meeting.

John Brown spoke on "Prepare to Meet Thy God."

What... no soap?

No... but cleaner, lovelier hair than you've ever known!

These unretouched photomicrographs (magnification 100 diameters) prepared in the Walter F. Herzberg laboratories (affidavits on request) show: (A) a hair washed with soap and carefully and painstakingly rinsed several times with clean water. Note the specks. These are soap curds... part of a soapy film that still remains on the surface of the hair. It is these curds and film which make hair look dull, dingy, lustreless. (B) the same hair washed with Cromwell's Soapless Cleanser and similarly rinsed with clean water. No soap curds here. No dingy film to make your hair seem dull and dead.

Do you want prettier hair... with more sheen and lustre... silkier feel? Then stop using soap or soap-type shampoos! For no matter how thoroughly you rinse your hair, you can't get all the soap out of it... a dull, sticky film remains to cloud its natural beauty.

You know how it is when you wash a glass in soapy water. Although thoroughly rinsed, if it is left to dry by itself, the glass looks streaked and is sticky to the touch... a soapy film clings to its smooth surface. You must polish it to make it really clean ... to make it sparkle. You can't, of course, polish every hair of your head... but CROMWELL'S amazing new soapless cleanser gives the same result... as proved by the microscope (note unretouched photomicrographs).

No soap film with CROMWELL'S... none of the injurious effects of soap... nothing harmful whatever. Your hair and scalp will be perfectly clean. And shampooing with CROMWELL'S is so much quicker than with soap or soap-type shampoos.

If CROMWELL'S doesn't give you the finest shampoo you've ever had, return the partly used bottle to your druggist and he'll cheerfully refund your money. Get a bottle at your neighborhood druggist's today. Robert H. Cromwell Company, Manufacturers, Los Angeles, California.

GRADE PUPILS PRESENT PLAY IN LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Dec. 3.—The fifth and sixth grade pupils of the Lincoln grammar school presented a play Wednesday afternoon for the entertainment of the P.-T. A. The regular meeting of the P.-T. A. was held in the Lincoln school auditorium and opened with community singing led by Prof. Frank L. Barrows, with Mrs. Ann Marie Marsh at the piano.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Edgar Leutwiler, showed a balance of $61.70. Mrs. Dan Hungerford, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported $7.91 from the recent candy sale. Twenty dollars received from supervisorial district No. 3 was turned over to the welfare committee for the purchase of milk for undernourished children.

Mrs. H. H. Peabody reported that the present enrollment totals 173 members. Mrs. Treff's room at Lincoln school and Miss Charlotte Hewitt's room in the Washington school held the highest percentage for memberships.

Mrs. J. L. Morris reported concerning the forming of a soup kitchen by the Community Welfare league and stated that bowls and a large coffee pot would be needed to carry on this work. She also stated that the city council would provide a woodpile, so that some of those coming to the soup kitchen might do their bit to pay for the meals.

Mrs. Robert H. Carey reported that Dr. Ethel Andre would be in La Habra at the baby clinic the second and fourth Thursdays of December to administer the toxin anti-toxin to children of pre-school age, in an effort to prevent diphtheria. Older children may also take this treatment if their parents so desire.

Check of the mothers present at this meeting showed that Miss Ruth Dickey's fifth grade at the Washington school were winners for this month, with Mrs. S. F. Treff's room at the Lincoln school winning the banner.

Prof. E. R. Berry reported on the study class which he has been asked to conduct for parents. An invitation was extended by Mr. Berry to all parents who wished to attend the next faculty meeting, on December 9, at 3:45 p. m., at which time Dr. Campbell of Los Angeles will address members of the faculty on "Preventing Dishonesty Among Grammar School Children."

The question of a white Christmas was discussed and Mr. Berry stated that he would be glad to have the children of the schools attend to this part of the welfare work this year, and stated that December 16, the last day of school, would be set aside for this work.

Woman's Club In Program Tuesday

BREA, Dec. 4.—Unusual interest is being shown in the Brea Woman's club program of next Tuesday afternoon. Being a Reciprocity day program a large attendance from the various county clubs is expected.

Miss Grace Barstow, world traveler and lecturer, will speak on the topic, "Rubbing Elbows With Our Southern Neighbors," her talk to be illustrated by the use of lantern slides.

Mrs. O. S. Close, hostess chairman, is to be assisted by Mesdames Woodruff, Cox, Gordon, Hay, Keene, Harvey, Culp, Negley, Ross, Sayles, LeGro, Spansley and Hardy.

Wilbur A. Shores Noble Grand For Brea Odd Fellows

BREA, Dec. 4.—Odd Fellows of Brea elected officers for the coming term of six month at their regular meeting Wednesday night. O. J. Pickering is retiring as noble grand and Wilbur A. Shores will succeed to that office. Walter A. Brandenburg was elected vice grand, Wallace Mnn, secretary, and Lester Hodkins, treasurer. New trustees are W. D. Withrow and O. J. Pickering, with Fred Brambley holding over for another year.

Installation of officers will take place in January, according to Pickering.

BREA GUILD WILL HOLD YULE PARTY

BREA, Dec. 4.—Fifteen members of the Guild met in the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon and spent the time tying comforters, which will be given to needy families.

At the business meeting at which the president, Mrs. W. W. Hay, presided, plans were made for the Christmas party which is to be held on the afternoon of December 16 in the church parlors. Mrs. Hay, Mrs. W. D. Shaffer, Mrs. Caroline Horton and Mrs. Harry Hardy will be hostesses at this time.

Mrs. R. M. Ross, Mrs. L. A. Sayles and Mrs. Hardy were named as a nominating committee to prepare for the election of officers, which is to be held in January.

A relief committee comprising Mrs. Shaffer, Mrs. C. C. Crookshank and Mrs. G. M. Phillips will look after the needy members of the congregation. Plans were made for the combination cooked food and apron sale, which will be held on December 18 at the Hogue-Gheen-Sayles market.

The Christmas party will offer a program and each member will bring a gift which will be used at Christmas time to cheer the holiday season for some who might not otherwise have gifts.

Pupils Arrange Christmas Party

OCEANVIEW, Dec. 4. — Plans for a Christmas program to be given December 18, the closing day school for the holiday vacation, are being made and by Friday it is expected that work on the different features will begin. Miss Susan Russell and Miss Ruby Gray will have charge of the musical program.

A business meeting of the Oceanview school board members, Messrs. W. De Laverne, Wm. S. Preston and Vernon Heil, was held Monday evening at the school.

The honor roll for the five upper grades of Oceanview for the first quarter has been posted, as follows: Fourth grade, Irma Dotson, Laddie Letson, Florence Murray, A. J. Nelson, Olin Parcels, Robert Ross; fifth grade, Betty Kikuchi, Norma Lee Lopp, Nubuco Furuta, Helen Murray, Robert Scribler, Dorothy Stine, Masaiuki Tashima; sixth grade, Sylvia Coker, Johanna Lewis, Helen Neishi, Jack Phillips, Akaeka Sadakane, Robert Shostag, Tom Sullivan; seventh grade, Kuzuko Furuta, Newell Honeycutt, Ruth Kikuchi, Ena Preston, Atsuye Sadakane, James Sullivan, Makayuki Tashima; eighth grade, Edith Brush, Elenore De Laverne, Opal De Busk, Nubuko Furuta, Teyoharu Kitajami, Tom Nagamatsu, Tom Sadakane, Gordon Stine, Evelyn Tunstall.

Firemen Arrange Signal System

LA HABRA, Dec. 4.—Plans for a signal system for volunteer firemen of La Habra were discussed Wednesday night at a meeting of the fire chief, J. B. Sanks and the two assistant chiefs together with Burt Burnip, engineer. There has been some difficulty in the firemen locating fires that occur in the night, without first going to the fire hall and many times much time and travel could be saved if some signal might be given. It is planned to install a series of colored lights on the tower of the fire hall, and work out a code signifying the various localities.

COLDS

Break Up in a Jiffy

This Quick Way

Feel Like A New Man Almost Before You Know It

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

90th Birthday Is Celebrated

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 4.—Ninety years is a long time to some people, but to Frank E. Beal, retired farmer and Spanish village resident, who is celebrating his ninetieth year today, it is only a good start towards a well rounded out life.

Born in Dover, Me., December 4, 1841, Beal came to California at 18 years of age and for two years worked in the gold mines. At 18 he was in charge of a construction gang on the old Great Pacific railway at San Jose. In 1871 he moved to Iowa, when that state was a mere Indian camping ground.

Unable to forget his old love for California two years ago Beal sold out his holdings in Iowa and Maine, and with Mrs. Beal came to San Clemente, where they purchased a home overlooking the Pacific.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED AT LA HABRA PARTY

LA HABRA, Dec. 4. — Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Randall entertained with a dinner Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Randall's niece, Miss Harriet Vilas, of Fullerton. The occasion was the birthday anniversary of Miss Vilas and covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Horace Blair and children, of Fullerton; Mrs. Emma Taylor, the honoree and Mr. and Mrs. Randall.

Mrs. Emma Thomas is a sister of Mr. Randall and will return to her home in Santa Clara Thursday after having visited at the Randall home over the holidays.

The Missionary society of the East Whittier Friends church will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Macy Smith in La Habra. Mrs. Florence Kenworthy will be in charge of the meeting.

The county W. C. T. U. executive meeting will be held all day Friday at Costa Mesa and Mrs. Anna Garretson, of La Habra, president, and Mrs. Milton Keeler, also of La Habra, treasurer, will attend.

Mrs. William Keith and Mrs. Gilbert R. Carey are preparing the Christmas program for the Church of Christ to be given Christmas eve.

FISH FOR NEEDY FAMILIES

ST. MICHAEL, Neb. Dec. 4. — Thousands of pounds of coarse fish, seined from the lakes near here by the state game commission, have been made available for needy families.

The state employes turned the fish over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

The fish were taken from the state lakes, since the coarse fish —carp, buffalo and others—are regarded a menace to game fish.

NEWS OF THE SCHOOLS

Frances Willard

English Exhibits

Have you noticed the book jackets in the exhibit case? If not, you have missed something. These jackets were made by members of Mrs. Mabel Budd's low nine English class. In the same case you may observe book marks and a suggestive book list prepared by Miss Vanche Plumb's classes and Ivanhoe books made by Mrs. Maurine Scott's high nine class.

Low Nine Latin Club

In the Low nine Latin class at Willard a Latin club was formed to create more interest in the study. The club usually meets the last 20 minutes of the second period every Thursday.

It is composed of 22 members. The officers are: Malcolm Smith, president; Hubert Nall, secretary; Archie Brock, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Mabel Budd, faculty adviser. Each week the members of the program committee, Muriel Bray, Lorraine Clark and Harvey Baker, plan a game or project that interests each member of the club

Radio Club Meets

"Educated Animals" was the name of the original play given by the Radio club at the last meeting during the home room period on Wednesday. Margaret Davies played the part of a tramp; Zelpha Matthews, a wife; Dorothy Matz, a husband, and Betty Frye, a peddler.

The club has decided to meet only every three weeks in the future. At the next meeting a Christmas play will be presented, according to the program committee.

Clever Projects Viewed

The clever projects made by the high 9-2 social science class of Miss Vera Jacobs are on exhibit in room 212. Among these is a large poster showing four figures, depicting Spanish costumes from early days down to the modern adaptation. This beautiful poster was made by Geraldine Bray.

An oil painting by Dorothy White, of a California mission, claims its share of attention. Marvin Hinton sketched in pencil the development of transportation shown by 12 original drawings on a large poster.

The first means of transportation shown is the Indian burden bearer, then the Spanish galleon, the ox cart, the prairie schooner, the clipper ship, pony express, stage coach, early Pacific steamship, freighting wagons, first Pacific railroad, the automobile, and last the airplane.

On a long table are four interestingly constructed projects. Walter Cullen has represented one of the leading industries of Southern California—the motion picture industry. He has made a miniature "set" that depicts an early California, Indian raid.

The oil industry is well represented in this exhibit by a perfect reproduction of an oil derrick in miniature form, made by Lynn Reed. A toy truck represents the modern means of transportation. Thelma Jennings has made, of wood, an old Spanish mission, which is very realistic.

The other members of the class have made booklets dealing with some phase of California life. The missions proved the more popular subject, but there are booklets on transportation, Catalina Island, Los Angeles and recreation in California.

These projects are made in connection with the course in California history recently completed by the class.

One large bulletin board is completely covered by colored maps made by Miss Jacobs' high 9-2, low 9-1, high 8-1, low 8-3, and low 7-3 social science classes. There are regional, physical and political maps of California, North America, the United States, and a series of four tiny maps showing the slave and free soil. The latter were made by the high 8-1 class while studying the Civil war.

A smalled bulletin board on one side of the room displays attractively a new idea in book reports—these are called "card reports." There is one card for each reference read, on which pupils give a brief summary of the contents of the book or article; a sentence indicating its relation to the chapter under discussion, and a statement of what they liked or disliked in the story or account. In order that reading may not become burdensome, long book reports are not required. Miss Jacobs gives each of her classes in social science a list of books dealing with the particular subject that class is studying; as books on California history, community civics, United States history, etc. Each pupil is required to read one reference, and encouraged to read as many as possible of the books which appeal to him.

Boys' Tennis Club

The first meeting of the Willard Boys' Tennis club was held Friday. A constitution was read and adopted and it was decided that all members were to wear tennis emblems.

The purpose of the club is to establish co-operation and enforce necessary rules on the tennis courts.

Officers were elected as follows: Bill Hawkins, president; Gordon Almas, secretary and treasurer. Additional members are Bob McNeil, Jack Wallace, Arthur Salesbury Hubert Nall, Bill Flood, Bill Lamb, Ralph Fuller, Wilmot Long, Everett Martin, Fred Pimental, George Young, Charles Spicer, Con Randal, Raymond Riggs and Billy Twist.

Faculty Enjoys Holidays

The Willard faculty spent the Thanksgiving holidays in various ways and places. Some were stay-at-homes, while others journeyed far and near. Miss Vera Ball, head of the social science department, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. H. W. Hieptner in Santa Barbara. Miss Lois Green visited her sister in Hollywood; Miss Esther Jean Davis her sister in Long Beach; Miss Deborah Elliott visited her brother in Whittier; and Miss Lucy Maas her mother in Los Angeles.

Miss Margaret Van Scoyac, the junior high school nurse, chose Palm Springs in the desert for her vacation. W. P. Read spent the week end at his ranch near San Jacinto and in the snow at Idyllwild.

Miss Maurine Mathes was the guest of her brother in Los Angeles. Sierra Madre was the destination of Miss Marion Libby. Miss Ruth Langley was another Los Angeles week end guest. Miss Elfreda Biggin was at her home in Redlands while Manhattan Beach claimed Norman Hicks. Los Angeles also claimed Mrs. Vivian Meeks, Willard secretary, while Mrs. Mable Blee, attendance clerk, spent Thangsgiving with her sister in Eagle Rock.

Other members of the faculty spent their vacation in or near Santa Ana, the majority of them entertaining guests for Thanksgiving day or over the week end.

Willard Fathers' Night

Dr. Percy Davis, superintendent of Santa Ana schools, was the principal speaker at the Willard Parent-Teacher association, Tuesday night. Since this was "Fathers' night," Dr. Davis had a message of special interest to fathers. Miss Esther Jean Davis, music instructor, presented her chorus groups, and Arnold Lund, boys' physical education instructor, was another interesting speaker. Following the meeting in the auditorium, refreshments were served in the safeteria, when fathers, mothers and teachers met socially.

Joint Club Meeting

A point meeting of the Willard Boys' Service club and the Willard Girls' Welfare club was held Tuesday noon in the cafeteria. The boys invited the girls to lunch. Frances Was, president of the Welfare club, was in charge of the meeting. Miss Deborah Elliott of the Willard faculty, an honored guest, gave a short and interesting talk on her trip to Europe last summer.

Other faculty members present were Lyle B. Mitchell, principal, and Arnold Lund, moys' physical education instructor. L. W. Archer, assistant athletic director of Santa Ana, was also a guest at the meeting.

Students Build Shop Equipment

Pupils enrolled in the industrial arts courses at Willard, are helping considerably in building the equipment needed in the different shops but which was not provided when school opened, according to Robert Horn, instructor.

Senior high school shop classes are co-operating by building equipment that the Willard shops are not equipped to take care of and that require a higher degree of skill. When the equipment under construction is completed and installed Frances E. Willard junior high school will have one of the best arranged and equipped industrial arts departments in Southern California.

Business Training Classes

"It is my aim in business training to teach the value and appreciation of thrift; to provide that knowledge which everyone must have in order to properly manage his own personal business affairs; to give such information about those major services which are utilized in the daily life of every person regardless of his vocation; to provide an exploration of commercial life so that the student may discover if he possesses or lacks native business ability for success in the business world; also to provide some knowledge of business for the non-commercial student," Miss Lucq Maas, Willard instructor, said Tuesday.

The pupil is provided with a laboratory practice manual, in connection with a text book, in which he uses all business forms in common use today and handled in connection with live transactions. In this practice set the pupil is required to use all the fundamental processes of arithmetic and prepare every kind of business paper in completing transactions, and it is so motivated to hold the student's interest and permit him to exercise his initiative and imagination.

New Library Course

The eighth grade at Frances Willard junior high school is taking a new and interesting library course, according to Miss Maurine Mathes, instructor. The objectives of this course are to learn the resources of the library including books, magazines, pamphlets, and pictures; to learn to use this material with speed and ease; to make a bibliography on a given subject, and write a paper from this bibliography.

This course is taken up in seven blocks or chapters. At the beginning of the course each individual pupil takes a subject in which he is interested, such as "Famous Musicianhs," and in each block he is given a chance to obtain information on this subject. When all blocks are completed he must read from the bibliography he has completed concerning this subject and write a paper on his chosen subject.

Classes in Adjustment

"The adjustment room at Willard junior high school is a class for those children who have been retarded for various reason: illness, sensory defects, frequent changing of schools and personality difficulties," Miss Evelyn Metzgar, instructor, said Monday. "Its purpose is to bring each child back as quickly as possible to his place among the students of his age. It is therefore, necessary to find just where each child needs extra drill and to place the emphasis on that part of the work."

The boys are given a practical course in woodshop in which class they make articles which may be used at home. The girls take cooking, a class which includes many general hints for homemaking. Other subjects given are reading, language, arithmetic and history. At present, in history, the class is studying about Indians; reading stories and mature legends; learning something of their mode of living; drawing pictures of the people, their weapons, and their houses.

One of the subjects that is especially important in the class is the study, direct and indirect, of good citizenship and proper conduct. "After all, practical lessons in better behavior remain imprinted on our minds when dates and decimals are long forgotten," Miss Metzgar said.

Legislature Convenes

The committee on agriculture has reported the bill, a government subsidy for tropical fruit transportation, out. Debate on the floor of the assembly began immediately. Assemblyman Moran fought the bill because his bill on redwood tree conservation had died in committee. The bill passed, however, by a small majority after much heated debate. . . . Such is the activity in the 613 social studies class as the members study state government.

Lathrop Committees

Lathrop Christmas donations are to be distributed through the officers of the IXL and EGC committees. A Christmas play is being prepared by the H9 girls to be given at the Delhi school. Girls are dressing dolls for the Delhi children.

Lately, through the efforts of the yard committee, the yards are looking much better. Those having noon permits must stay on the grounds after returning from dinner.

The members of the cafeteria safety committee are trying to help the students select proper food for the lunches and planning to have posters showing good food combinations. These posters will be changed each week. They also have each day's menu written on the blackboard near the entrance in order that the children may know what is being served each day. Vivian Elliot is chairman of this committee.

By Glenn Cave.

Will Serve Tea

The second period L9 cooking class has been divided into groups of six to plan, prepare and serve a series of informal teas. Guests will include mothers and teachers. The first tea will be served Thursday after school with Given Griffin as chief host.

The 545 and 555 cooking classes are counting their calories. They have determined how many they need each day and are checking to see if they are actually getting that amount. This ought to be a help to the fat ones. Slim ones???

The 515 cooking class has finished some interesting posters representing the different foodstuffs such as proteins, fats, the different minerals, etc.

By Virginia Prichard.

Book Reviews

The 314 English class has been reviewing favorite student books this week. "The American Indian" by F. Starr was reviewed by Mildred McCullough; "The Road of Melody" by Carrie Jacobs Bond was reviewed by Lois Lambert, while "The Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin," "Biography of Alexander Hamilton," "A Central American Journey," "The Real American," and other interesting books were reviewed by Vera Flores, Ralph Bradley, Anne Wakeham, Merlin Swafford and other members of the class.

"The Pioneer's Rifle" by Stewart Edward White stimulated unusual interest on the part of the 314s last week. After following Daniel Boone's long squirrel rifle on many an interesting hunt and adventure, different members of the class brought guns and told interesting stories and tales about each gun. Firearms ranging from the old "muzzle loader" to the modern machine gun were themes of interesting explanations and discussions.

By Ralph Bradle and Pauline Chapman.

New Books

The week end brought a host of new and interesting books to the Lathrop library. Miss Calkins, librarian, thinks Lathrop students unusually lucky in having access to a constantly new and varying source of books. "Rollingstone," by Thomas; "Humanity Uprooted," by Hindus; "Around the World in Eight Days," by Post; "Graper Girls," Corbett; "Builder of the Dam," Heybiger; "Learning to Fly for the Navy," Studley; "Jeanne d'Arc," Eaton, and "For the Freedom of the Mohawk."

Mrs. Hart, language teacher, enjoyed an unusual Thanksgiving dinner at Pomona. The Scripps college afforded an interesting afternoon at Claremont.

Coach Ferris Scott and Coach Patton vowed vows of victory and measured tennis racquets on the Lathrop court Monday. Crowds of interested spectators, both faculty and students, hurled cries of encouragement at both contestants. Balls were crashed and banged through a three-game set to a fourth game. Each wearied by the other's onslaught, the valiant warriors conceded the match to each other.

News Notes

This week end Miss Esther Rideout thrilled over an exciting trip to Bakersfield. To reach her destination she drove 40 miles on the Ridge route behind a snow plow. Nothing less than "simply gorgeous" describes the mountains in that vicinity when blanketed with snow.

Lois Mae Stockton, 314, made an exciting trip to the Big Bear, where she frolicked in the snow.

Virginia Imhoff, 314, enjoyed a short trip to Mt. Lowe during the vacation days.

Mrs. Iva M. Webber, vice principal, vacationed pleasantly at home, entertaining her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Kellogg of Los Angeles.

Barbara Meserve was also numbered among the Laguna Beach vacationers. Barbara remarked favorably about Thanksgiving ocean bathing at Laguna.

Miss Carl celebrated the holidays by moving into a new home, 424 West Pine street. Moving on a holiday will probably bless the Carl home with a continuous holiday atmosphere.

Vinson Martion got up at 4 o'clock Saturday morning and went duck hunting on Balboa bay backwaters. Vinson's father and cousin made up the lucky party. The cousin got "the" duck..

Mr. Scott announces a busy week beginning Monday. Intramural games start! Mr. Scott expects at least one team from each section. This is a splendid time and opportunity to win letters!

The Well Dressed Girl

Miss Foster's clothing classes are using "The Well Dressed Girl" as a theme for present activities. The girls never dreamed that so much could possibly exist to know about clothes. But dresses are being made faster and more easily than at the beginning of the semester because of the last several months' training and experience.

Students to Help Needy

"The Christmas season is here again and the girls of Lathrop are preparing Christmas barrels for the hall, into which Lathrop students may drop food, clothing and toys for the Delhi and other children that are less fortunate than we," confides Mrs. Webber, dean of girls.

Beulah Purkey, Alice Brown and Ruby Lundstedt, girls from the H9, are preparing a red barrel trimmed in white. Marie Lewis and Lois Neubold are working on a red barrel trimmed in green. This is the L9 barrel. Dorris Pool and Donna Baker are making a green and red barrel for the H8. The girls making a green barrel for the L8 are Harriet Skinner, Barbara Warren and Caolyn Davis. The green barrel trimmed in white for the H7 is being prepared by Helen Meyer and Blanche Grier. Bonny Kyte and Dorothy Skinner are working on a red and green barrel for the L7.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERNA RAMSEY

The literary sensation of the season in England has been "A Brass Hat in No Man's Land" by Brigadier-General F. P. Crozier. No previous book dealing with the World war has been so bitterly denounced over there as this one. However, no responsible authority has attempted to challenge the statements of fact given on General Crozier's first-hand testimony.

It is a "front line" war book, written by a soldier, born and bred to war and experienced in the art of killing, who despite his snappy manner "on parade," was at all times a human being. He describes the creation of blood lust in 1914, and the inculation of martial ideas so that the enemy can be well met and matched, transference to France, and finally the arrival in the line. The mud and rats in 1916, suicide in the trenches, desertion, execution of a comrade, together with the valor of the gallant old Colonel Ormerod and his men through it all, present a picture which is sane, manly, simple, and straightforward.

He tells of the work of the regimental officer in the line of 1915. On the Somme he was a battalion commander. Leading a thousand Ulstermen to almost certain death at Thiepval, the brigade commander at the Welch epic at Bourlon Wood, the German March offensive and the "Stonewall," the flight of the Portuguese with its attendant discomfiture and finally the advance to victory at the head of veterans of the old brigade "who never knew they were beat" are parts of a most thrilling personal record.

This book tells very vividly of conditions on the Western front as told by one who is an authentic witness.

We have read many accounts lately of swift airplane voyages here and there over the world. In "Atlantic Circle" by Leonard Outhwaite we are taken on a voyage in a more primitive manner.

This is the true record of an adventurous trip in a small schooner across the Atlantic ocean and back. It is the story of a man and woman and small crew contending against the sea and all nature. It is filled with the lore of the sea, of brave struggles, and of poys the traveler in mammoth mechanical ships never even glimpses.

The Outhwaites sailed 14,000 miles, touched four continents, and rested in many strange ports. They survived temptuous nights and days in which human courage and strength seemed all too frail. They encountered days and nights of almost unbelievable beauty, of serenities and joys the modern traveler never knows.

The book abounds with the lore of the sea, of ships and hand-to-hand encounters with all weathers; with land adventures in England, France, Portugal and Spain, in Morocco, along the African west coast and in the West Indies. It contains indispensable information for all who love boats, and a record of true adventure for all who like to read about the sea. It is, in short, a saga of a modern man, without the aid of the machine, pitting himself against nature.

Captain Tom Rynning rides neck-and-neck with the immortal line of Indian fighters and wilderness wrestlers. The story of his career from his own lips is set down by Al Cohn and Joe Chicholm in "Gun Notches."

This is the true chronicle of a great frontiersman on the final frontier. While Captain Tom Rynning, the tall man of "Gun Notches" has not yet attained his desserts as a national hero, this book should help him to find a place. He describes stampedes in which steers that were "real wild; wild like deer are wild" broke into mad panics at night. He gives a marvelous picture of a cowboy trying to check a runaway herd while his fierce pony fights the nearest horned steer with tooth and shoulder. At 19 he joined the calvary to fight Apaches and had enough adventure to destroy a dozen average heroes. These are in this account occasional snapshots of famous men, notably of Leonard Wood and of Roosevelt.

Tom Rynning's career as cowboy, soldier, Indian fighter, officer in the Rough Riders, captain of Rangers and penitentiary warden is almost unparalleled. The story of it comes crackling hot as a smoking revolver, salty and breathless as his achievements.

TULANE PROMISED ROSE BOWL BID

hooks and slides

—william braucher—

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Nearly all the Army football men play with their arms exposed nearly to the elbow . . . it was noticed in the Pitt-Army game . . . at first thought your observer deemed the jerseys too short for the wearers so he asked Cappy Wells, Army publicity chief, who happened to be in the press box. . . . "The sweaters are big enough," replied Cappy, "but the boys wear 'em rolled up." . . . "But why do they wear 'em rolled up?" asked your observer . . . and Cappy didn't know. . . . Our guess is that they play with their sleeves rolled up because they can tackle better that way . . . the jerseys having a skiddy surface . . . while the sweaty arm sticks to what it grabs . . . but maybe it's only because of habits developed while doing kitchen police.

IS FRIEDMAN RIGHT?

Benny Friedman wishes to point out that the south is "far ahead of the rest of the country in football." The Pacific coast region has reason to think so, judging from Rose Bowl results. The coast entry never has beaten a southern team in the Rose Bowl. The great Georgia Tech and Alabama teams took care of that.

TULANE-U. S. C.

After watching Southern California defeat Notre Dame, this correspondent cannot conceive how Tulane could beat the Trojans, even with the aid of Governor Huey Long.

PURPLE-TROJANS

It is equally hard to imagine Northwestern defeating Southern California. It is hard to see anybody beating the Jones juggernaut, after that magnificent display of football at South Bend. But then St. Mary's did.

GEORGIA-U. S. C.

The Georgia team that beat Yale and New York U. goes to Los Angeles to play Southern California December 12. It won't be the same Georgia team, however, by reason of having bumped through one of the toughest schedules ever devised.

Every game takes a little bit out. Tulane took a great deal out of Mehre's men. New York U. took some more. Now comes another very unpleasant afternoon against the Trojans. Our hearts bleed for Georgia in general and for Mr. "Catfish" Smith in particular when he gets in the way of those power plays and laterals.

Cole Says Tustin Cage Rule At End

FARMERS FACE LEAN YEAR IN COUNTY LEAGUE

Famine always follows the feast, so "Big Bill" Cole, Tustin Hi's large basketball coach fears his Farmers are due for a lean and hungry season in the Orange County league.

Cole's quintets haven't yielded a conference hoop contest since the season of 1929, winning the 1930 and 1931 races all by themselves. Even in 1929, the Farmers waxed everyone but Fullerton, so for the last three years they've set a record for consistency that has never been equalled in the county confederacy.

But this year is due to be different, Cole says.

The husky mentor may be letting off some psychological blasts for the benefit of other league skippers but he is officially on record as predicting no better than a .500 average for his defending "champeens."

Departure of "Hen" Thiery, brilliant forward for four years, put the chief crimp in Tustin's 1932 prospects although several other veterans, including Horace Ritner, Harry Holmes and Joe Crafts, will be sorely missed too.

Vern Carlson, guard, and Herb Lawerence and Jack Lindsey, forwards, are the only returning lettermen.

Although Cole has no hopes for a third successive casaba championship, he is hard at work building 24 candidates for 'varsity berths into a fast, scrappy squad. As in the last football season, Tustin's hopes will depend on speed.

Despite apparent lack of material, the Tustin hoopsters can always be expected to spring some surprises. Such unknowns as Charles Crumley, a transfer from Santa Ana; Leroy Sears, Ralph Wetzel, Elmer Farnsworth and Louis Collins have yet to be tested. They may develop into first class regulars.

Coach Cole is planning scrimmages with various squads, continuing practice sessions throughout Christmas holidays.

Tustin's league schedule follows: Jan. 8—Tustin at Capistrano; Jan. 15—Garden Grove at Tustin; Jan. 22—Tustin at Anaheim; Jan. 29—Orange at Tustin; Feb. 5—Tustin at Brea-Olinda; Feb. 12—Huntington Beach at Tustin; Feb. 19—Newport Harbor at Tustin.

Others out for the squad: Arnett, Benton, Handy, Horton, Jordan, T. McInteer, H. McInteer, Drennan, Morris Osterman, Seacord, Silver, Spangler, Truran, Birdsal, Mennes.

GREENIES MUST BEAT COUGARS FOR INVITATION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(UP)—It was down in black and white today, that conditional Invitation has been extended Tulane to meet the University of Southern California football team at the Pasadent Rose Tournament game New Year's Day.

Willis O. Hunter, athletic director at U. S. C., sent Coach Bernie Bierman of Tulane a telegram that if Tulane defeats Washington State college Saturday, the invitation will be forthcoming.

The formal bid will go by telephone immediately after the Green Wave-Cougar contest in New Orleans.

PASADENA BID INCENTIVE TO TULANE SQUAD

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Assured of an invitation to the Rose Bowl for the New Year's Day classic if they win, Tulane's Green Wave had the needed incentive today for what Captain Jerry Dalrymple believes "will be the battle of its life" with Washington State here tomorrow.

It is certain to be a struggle of brawn and wits, with both teams using a similar style of play. Tulane has been using the single wingback formation for three years. Saturday they will face it, for that is the Cougars' favorite method of attack. It is an effective play, with tremendous off-tackle and end power, and is easily adapted to forward passing.

Announcement from Willis O. Hunter, athletic director at University of Southern California, that a telephone invitation to the Rose Bowl would be extended Tulane if it wins Saturday, restored most of the zest that had been lacking due to rumors Northwestern already had the bid.

WHITE SOX TRADE REYNOLDS, KERR, WEILAND IN SHAKEUP

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 4.—(UP)—The rebuilding of the Chicago White Sox and the reorganization of the minor leagues were the two chief topics of conversation today as the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs entered the final day of the 30th annual convention.

The White Sox engineered the biggest trade since the close of the 1931 season when they traded Outfielder Carl Reynolds and Infielder Johnny Kerr to Washington for Pitchers Irving Hadley, "Sad Sam" Jones and Infielder Minter C. Hayes.

An hour after the Washington deal, the White Sox traded Bob Weiland, southpaw pitcher, to the Boston Red Sox for Milton Gaston, right handed pitcher, and it was learned today, that they have two more deals pending which are expected to be consummated at the major league meeting in Chicago next week.

One of them is with the New York Yankees who have made overtures for Vic Frasier, right handed pitcher. The Sox do not want to part with Frasier, but have countered with another offer.

Another deal of the day came when the Memphis Southern league club acquired Shortstop George Wuestling from the Portland Pacific Coast league club by purchase.

WALKER CAPTAIN OF 1932 ORANGE TEAM

Ted Walker, chunky center, will captain the 1932 Orange high school football squad. He was elected following a meeting of team members after their last game with Santa Monica.

Among outgoing players will be Welty, Captain Leichtfuss, Yorba, Moise, Krueger, Peterson, Miles, St. Clair, Flippen, Meyer, Kramer, Cerney, Bonecutter and Beckman.

Returning lettermen will include Lemke, Goodwin, Gunther, McBride, Danielson, Dugan, Maag, Alcanter, Spennetta and Captain Walker.

VARNER DEFENDS TITLE

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Claude Varner, holder of the state featherweight championship, will defend his title in a 10-round bout with Varias Milling, Filipino champion, at Legion stadium tonight. Varner won his title several months ago when he whipped Fidel La Barba, former world's champion.

URGE ABOLISHMENT OF KICKOFF WEDGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Coach Frank Cavanaugh of Fordham at the annual coaches meeting late this month plans to urge abolishment of the "wedge" play which protects the catcher of the kickoff.

Cavanaugh believes the "wedge" responsible for injuries which caused the deaths of Cadet Richard Sheridan of the U. S. Military academy and Cornelius Murphy of Fordham.

Both Sheridan and Murphy were injured on kickoff plays, being blocked out by players protecting the ball carrier. There was no suspicion of foul tactics in either accident.

WALKER-SCHMELING GO DEFINITELY 'ON'

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Mickey Walker, retired undefeated middle-weight champion, has been selected definitely as the next opponent for the world's heavyweight champion, Max Schmeling.

The bout will be staged either in Madison Square Garden, New York; Miami, Fla., or Olympic stadium, Los Angeles, Joe Jacobs, manager of the German champion announced today.

PREP COACHES SELECT COAST LEAGUE ELEVEN

Coast Preparatory league coaches showed a wide divergence of opinion in selecting all-conference football teams for 1931, although most of them agreed that Santa Ana Hi, the champions, deserved more places than any other school.

Lawrence Lutz, crack Saint tackle, was a unanimous nomination and so was Rod Cameron of Alhambra in some position or other. "Toy" Blower of Santa Ana and Elmer Pryor of Fullerton were recognized by four of the five reporting coaches.

One interesting feature was that every coach considered his own center as the best in the league.

High School 'Bees' Begin Basket Work

Coach Clyde Patton is working with a squad of more than 25 class B basketball candidates at Santa Ana high school, but most of the players are forwards, the list at present including but three centers and five guards.

Heading the list of forwards are Larry Taylor, Howard Rash and Ernest Acker. Taylor is a returning letterman, while Acker was regular center for last year's crack "Cee" quintet. Rash is a returning "Bee."

"Feet" Weimer, Frank Pope and Freddy Southworth are prospective centers.

Harold Daley, Russell Cochems, Jimmy Klepper, Louie Holmes and Bill Clark all look good at guard and two of these probably will fill in at the all-important goal-tending jobs.

Waldo Smith, former Frances Willard star, is one of the most promising newcomers. Elmer Manning is another returning Bee. He was rendered unable to play last season due to an injured foot, but is expected to make a serious bid for a forward post.

The complete list of candidates follows: Centers, "Feet" Weimer, Frank Pope, Freddy Southworth; forwards, Bill Quon, John Wood, Waldo Smith, Howard Rash, Bill Spurgeon, Ray Bartelman, Johnny Griset, Jack MacFarlane, Harold Youel, Ernest Aker, Larry Taylor, Holmes Chambless, Elmer Manning and Vic Mossberg; guards, Bill Clark, Russ Cochems, Harold Daley, Jimmy Klepper and Louie Holmes.

The class B team plays all its games preliminary to varsity contests this year. This arrangement calls for trips to San Diego and Glendale. Several practice encounters have been arranged with Orange county high school, the first of which is tentatively set for next week.

Varner To Captain Fullerton Jaycees

Calvin Varner of Brea has been named captain of next year's Fullerton junior college football team. Varner played halfback for Coach Art Nunn's Yellowjackets this season.

Of 20 men to earn monograms this season 15 will return next year, giving the Hornets the best prospective team in history.

Captain Wendell Pickens, Brown, Del Gorgio, Killingsworth and Coons are the men who played their last season of junior college football.

Bishop, Carroll, Dickinson, Easton, Kampert, Ketchum, Kloth, Leezer, McCormick, McHatton, Madison, Robbins, Rogers, Captain-elect Varner and Wallace will return.

HUSKIES FIRED UP, MAY GIVE TROY TROUBLE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Although Southern California will be regarded as a heavy favorite over the University of Washington when the two teams trot out on the Coliseum field tomorrow, all hands in both camps agree that a battle of no mean proportions is in prospect.

The Huskies from Seattle arrived this morning and will be all set to give Howard Jones' Trojans a game they will not soon forget.

When Jones handed Phelan a trouncing last year, Phelan up and declared he didn't think it cricket for Jones to run up a 32-point score. And then Jones voiced somewhat similar sentiments when several of his star footballers were assisted from the field.

Phelan hopes to catch the Trojans in an overconfident frame of mind, since their defeat of Notre Dame. Big Jim Musick, plunging fullback, will play for U. S. C. in his new headgear, with a gadget which fits down over his broken nose.

AERIAL BATTLE EXPECTED IN NORTHERN GAME

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—(UP)—The Mustangs of Southern Methodist university, came out of the Southwest today to await the gun tomorrow that will start them against St. Mary's of Moraga in what is expected to be one of the hardest fought football games in years here.

The Mustangs, undefeated champions of the Southwest conference, arrived here this morning, accompanied by Ray Morrison, their veteran coach. Morrison and the team exuded confidence although in tackling the Galloping Gaels they will meet a fighting, determined team, keyed to the highest pitch.

The game is expected to produce a brilliant aerial duel. Southern Methodist is noted for its passing technique while the Gaels, victors over Southern California, California and Oregon, have resorted to the pass in winning most of their games.

Drake, Loyola In Night Grid Clash

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(UP)—The Drake Bulldogs, Missouri valley champions, will be slight favorites over Loyola university tonight at Wrigley field, but the Lions, striving hard for football recognition, are primed for their best effort of the year.

ANAHEIM FIVE TO OPEN DONS' BASKET SEASON

Basketball practice went into full swing at Santa Ana junior college today, with 32 candidates, twice the initial turnout, offering their services to Coach Bill Foote.

The Don mentor this week added two more games to his practice list, announcing that the Anaheim Clothiers will furnish the first opposition for his players next Wednesday night in Andrews gymnasium. Monday and Tuesday of next week will be spent in organized drill, and the Anaheim skirmish will serve mainly as a "warmer" for the Whittier college game here one week from tonight, Foote said.

The Shamrock Athletic club of Los Angeles has consented to send its team here January 27 for a practice tilt, which will come in between two of Santa Ana's conference games. This date virtually completes a practice schedule which sends the Dons against an array of helpful opposition, including games with Gila junior college of Arizona, Tempe State Teachers' college, Inglewood Athletic club, Long Beach junior college, and the Concordia Athletic club.

Reporting for the first time were Jack O'Mara, Carl Schoenberg, Mike Santa Cruz, Jimmie Hally, Burt Winslow, Dwayne Robinson, "Slim" Bliss, Emmett Seacord, Wayne Bartholomew, Leo Baspar, Duncan Harnois, Art Casey, Adam Lehr and Elwyn Johnson.

Floorwork, passing and dribbling, featured yesterday's drill. Foote was impressed with the showings made by "Hen" Thiery, Tustin flash, and Russell Sullivan, former Santa Ana high school star. The two red-heads seem to be in better condition than most of the candidates, and are going about their

Churches of the city are to give programs on the evening of December 25. The Orange Union High school assembly is to be held December 16 when school closes for a vacation period which will extend to January 4. CONDITIONS IN CHINA TOLD TO CHURCH GROUP

ORANGE, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Carrie M. Bartlett, who is spending a furlough in South Pasadena from the mission fields of China, was the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church in the church parlors yesterday.

The meeting was opened with devotionals in charge of Miss Sarah Bosworth, also a returned missionary from China, who read Scriptural texts relating to Christmas and the devotional service was closed with the singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Reports were given by Mrs. James Worall, who spoke on "Giving Ourselves." At the close of the meeting a Christmas offering was taken, with Miss Lula Kenyon in charge. Mrs. J. E. Parks presided and special music was a solo by Miss Emma Corson, who sang "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus." Mrs. Clara Allen was her accompanist. Miss Sarah Bosworth, Miss Lula Kenyon and Mrs. Russell Kenyon gave reports of a recent conference meeting in Los Angeles, when 860 women were present and Dr. Helen Kim, president of a Korean college, was the principal speaker.

The trio of women told of Dr. Kim's appearance, her early life and of the work she is doing in China. Miss Sarah Bosworth spoke briefly and said that she believed that at the present time flood relief was of the most consequence in China, as many villages had been flooded to such a depth that only the tops of the tallest trees were above the water. Miss Bosworth and Mrs. Bartlett sang as a duet, "Jesus Loves Me," in the Chinese language.

Of especial interest to the women present was the glimpse of life in China, given by Mrs. Bartlett, when she told of the sacrifices of Chinese women inproviding mite boxes with which to carry on the work of missions in parts of China where none had yet been established. She told of a woman who received seven dollars a month, with which she supported herself and three children, who gave four dollars of this sum as a thank offering, because the missionaries had saved her little girls from being sold when her husband deserted her.

Mrs. Bartlett told of meeting Dr. Harry Worley, who is at the head of the Foochow, China, university and who spent year before last in Santa Ana. Birthdays are not counted in China, the speaker related, unless the age of 50 years has been reached. Individual birthdays are never celebrated, she said, and all birthdays are celebarted at the same time on the Chinese New Year's.

The next meeting of the society will be held in the home of Mrs. Flora Walker, North Grand street, January 7.

It was reported that two-thirds of the dues for the first quarter had been paid and that this placed the society on the honor roll in the missionary societies of the church.

OLIVE, Dec. 4.—The Ladies' Aid society of St. Paul's Lutheran church was entertained for its regular meeting at the hall Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Fred Guenther and Mrs. O. Burdg. The business session was preceded by a brief program given by the third and fourth grade pupils under the direction of Walter Mueller. They first gave a play, entitled "The Bookshop."

The various characters were played by Russel Burdg, Edith Englert, Helen Heinemann, Fred Klaner, Gilbert Timken, Muriel Schmid, Warren Lemke, Lorna Paulus, Gilbert Krage, Dora Ellinghausen, James Timken, Elois Heinemann, Naomi Boehner, Howard Timken, Viola Lemke, Bernice Timken and Clinton Lieffers.

Then followed several Christmas songs played by the youthful violinists, Lawrence Timken, Howard Luchau, Bobby Burdg, Elmer Lemke, Alfred Boehner and Donald Timme, with Mr. Mueller at the piano. After the business meeting gifts were exchanged among the members. Mesdames Robert Paulus, Walter Krage and August Heinemann were elected to serve on the auditing committee.

Around the table, decorated with Christmas ornaments and with a Santa Claus bearing his bag of sweets, were gathered Mesdames H. T. Moennich, Arthur Paschall, Walter Timme, Carl Gollin, Emilia Breije, Walter Krage, Henry Heinemann, C. D. Heim, George Boehner, August Heinemann, A. W. Schmid, Theodore Mierger, Herman Meierhoff, Herman Lemke, W. E. Paulus, August Lemke, Robert Paulus, Walter Timken and Rudy Heman.

P.-T. A. COUNCIL BACKS FUND DRIVE

ORANGE, Dec. 4.—Pledging their support to the Orange Welfare board, in its project of raising a $1500 fund for further activities, members of the City Council P.-T. A. met Wednesday afternoon in the intermediate school, with George Sherwodo, superintendent of city schools, acting as host. Mrs. Carl Sutton, president, was in charge.

Plans for the campaign, to begin December 8, were outlined.

Members learned that the sum of $212.24 was cleared in the P.-T. A. production, "Corporal Egan," given November 19 and 20 in the high school. Each of the grammar school and the Intermediate school associations was presented with a check for $35.39 as its share in the play proceeds. A vote of thanks was extended the cast and all who assisted in the benefit program.

The meeting followed an early afternoon luncheon planned and served by members of the cooking class and their advisor, Miss Lucille West.

Those present included Mesdames Carl Sutton, James Winget, A. J. Schoenfeldt, L. L. Williams, C. C. Hatch, E. G. Stinson, G. U. Straw, H. G. Joost, Jo Witt, Charles Robinson, Fred Lentz, Paul Ristow, M. A. Sisson, and the Misses Rachel Williams and Vena Jones.

COUNTY SCOUT WORK TOLD AT POST SESSION

ORANGE, Dec. 4.—A 10-year-old boy with a cinnamon bear put on a program of wrestling at the meeting of the American Legion post last night. Col. M. B. Wellington, state chairman of the American Legion Boy Scout committee and president of the county council of Boy Scouts, was the speaker of the evening, outlining activities of the organization and pointing the benefits to boys who were members. He stated that there are now more than 1000 Scouts in the county and that the county had gone from twenty-fourth to seventh place in the regional organization.

The camp maintained by the Scouts at Camp Ro-Ki-Li is the finest in the state, the speaker said, and has been in use every week since last summer with the exception of last week when the snow was four feet deep at the camp.

Roland Dodd, former member of the Orange post, was present and renewed old friendships and invited the members of the post to a Christmas party to be held at Culver City. Announcement was made that a pot luck dinner would be shared by post and Legion auxiliary members December 21 at the Legion clubhouse. Commander Lynn Wallace announced that all ex-service men are welcome to Legion meetings whether or not they are members of the post.

LAGUNA BEACH HITS PLAN OF MOTOR TRANSIT

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 4.—At the request of John Jelle, the Laguna Beach city council Wednesday night ordered a protest filed against the proposed abandonment by the Motor Transit of the bus service between Three Arches and Laguna Beach.

Expressing the belief that the city council was not to blame for what happened, Mrs. John J. Dunphy told the council that the remains of her father, Capt. Oliver Brooks, former sea captain, Civil war veteran and pioneer in Orange county coast development, which were unearthed last year when Park avenue was improved, had been buried in potters field.

According to Mrs. Dunphy, she and other relatives were given to understand that as the city has disturbed her father's last resting place that it had agreed to give the remains a decent burial. She said the funeral arrangements were well carried out but that when they noticed that the ground where the burial took place was so rough and unkept, they supposed it was a new part of the cemetery. Recently the G. A. R. wished to erect a tablet at the grave and discovered that the body was in potter's field, Mrs. Dunphy said. It was when she inquired about perpetual care for the grave that she made the discovery, Mrs. Dunphy said.

Councilman C. R. Clapp, who knew the pioneer and sea captain and made arrangements for the funeral, said it was his understanding that a lot had been paid for and that if it had not, he "certainly wanted to know it." Mayor J. E. Bishop named a committee, composed of Councilman Clapp and Champion, to make an investigation of the matter.

An audit of the books of Mrs. Marion Weaver Rawson, who resigned as city treasurer Nov. 1, showed the books were in excellent shape and the handling of them was complimented by the certified public accountant making the report.

O. U. Miracle was given a 90-day extension on the contract for paving the Laguna cliffs section of the city on recommendation of City Engineer Frank P. Gowan, who said the delay was due in part to his own desire to give plenty of time for the fills to settle. He expressed the belief that the job can be completed within a month and that the actual paving will start soon.

Because of the condition of the hog market, Thomas D. Bird asked for a reduction in the contract price for the city garbage. The request was filed for future reference.

An application from C. Hartwell Smith asking that he be assigned the work of spreading the assessments on the cliffs paving job was filed for future reference.

City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey reported that because the city dump is not on city property that the city will have to pay taxes assessed by the county. It developed during the discussion that when the assessments for the Broadway improvement were spread, a portion of Heisler park, then owned by the county, had been included in one of the assesment zones. The county failed to ask for exemption and when the park was deeded to the city, Laguna Beach inherited the assessments. The sum of $93.60 was paid this year and a total of about $1500 will have to be paid. The proceedings are under the Mattoon act and there is no way for the city to avoid the payments.

A resolution was adopted asking the state board of health to grant a permit for the construction of a complete treatment plant in connection with the Arch Beach sewer system, bonds having been voted last Monday for the project in the sum of $180,000.

The council adjourned until Monday, Dec. 7, when the sewer bond election vote will be canvassed.

Boys Decide To Talk After Stay In La Habra Jail

LA RABRA, Dec. 4.—Chief of Police Archie Collins stopped two boys at the intersection of Fullerton road and Central avenue Thursday. The boys had run away from their homes in Wilmington and through a radio broadcast of their description they were recognized by Collins.

The boys refused to talk when apprehended but a short time in the La Habra city jail convinced them it would be better to tell their story and be released to their parents, who came here from Wilmington and took them home.

C. OF C. ENDORSES PARK BOND ISSUE

FULLERTON, Dec. 4.—Recommendations were made by the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting yesterday that the city council call an election for a bond issue to the extent of $50,000 for park improvement work.

This is the first time that this organization has gone on record endorsing this project and is the first time that a definite amount has been named for improvement work. The unemployment committee is now completing a ballot check-up to determine the public sentiment in this regard and as a result the tally shows that the vote is more than two to one in favor of it. The endorsement by the local chamber sets the amount at a lower estimate than had been suggested by the unemployment committee.

The chamber of commerce also recommended that a petition be circulated to further determine the sentiment of the people living in Fullerton.

ELKS TO MEET IN MEMORIAL LODGE SERVICE

"The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands; their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory."

Sunday at 2:30 p. m. members and friends of Santa Ana lodge No. 794, B. P. O. E., will gather at the Elks club on Sycamore street, to pay reverent tribute to their departed brothers. The public is invited to attend this memorial service of the lodge, which is held annually on the first Sunday in December.

The opening address will be given by Exalted Ruler Franklin G. West of the Santa Ana lodge and will follow the piano and violin presentation of "Meditation" from Massenet's "Thais" by Ruth Armstrong and Georgia Belle Walton.

Following the opening address by Exalted Ruler West, Miss Walton will play "Poem," by Fibich, as a violin solo.

E. R. Majors, secretary of the Santa Ana lodge, will call the roll of departed brothers after which Cecil Fross Willits will sing "Our Absent Brothers" by Wehrman.

$55,000 PLEDGED BY STATE IN FLY FIGHT

The state of California has pledged $55,000 for continuing the campaign against the citrus white fly in Santa Ana and Southern California, it was announced yesterdy at Sacramento by Rolland A. Vandegrift, director of finance.

The announcement followed a conference of citrus leaders with Governor James Rolph jr. and Dudley Moulton, director of the state department of agriculture. The campaign has been carried on here by Orange county and the state through the emergency period and the state funds pledge is designed to aid in the battle to eradicate the pest entirely.

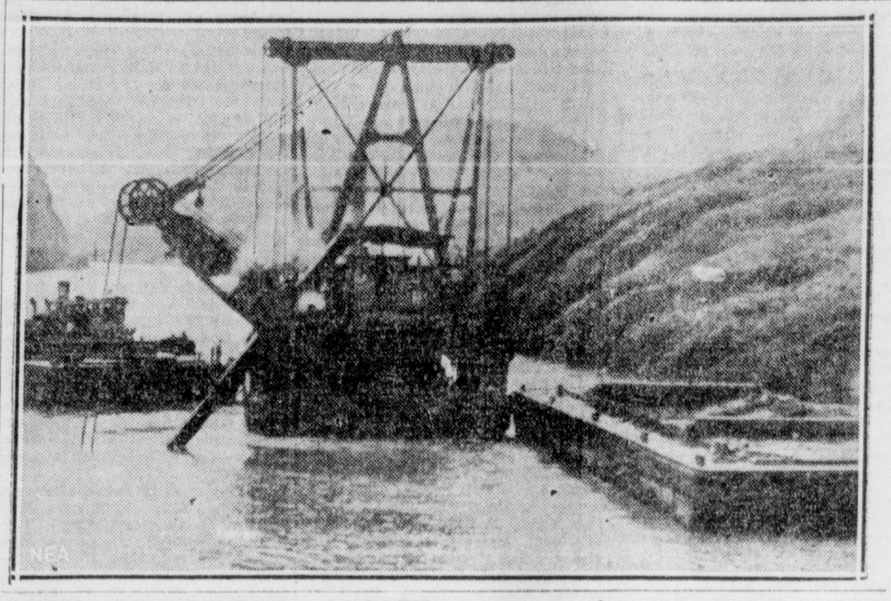
State aid to the extent of $120,000 was sought by the citrus interests.

Rural Supervisors To Hold Session

Approximately 50 rural school supervisors of Southern California will meet here next Monday in the office of County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson, for a business session. Helen Heffernan, state supervisor of rural schools, will be in charge of the session, which will be an all day affair starting at 9 a. m.

CLEARING PATH AFTER LANDSLIDE

When a landslide jammed Uncle Sam's Panama Canal, blocking the passage of inter-ocean ships, this big dredge was put to work to clear the way. Torrential rains had undermined a hill in the Gaillard Cut.



CITY TEACHERS ASSIST IN PROVIDING CLOTHING AND FOOD FOR CHILDREN

Attention of those interested in school affairs of this city, has been directed during the past few weeks to the problems confronting the various grammar schools as well as the two junior high schools, Polytechnic high school and junior college, as a direct result of the current depression.

At a recent meeting of the City Principals' association, individual problems were discussed and much interest was aroused by the manner in which principals of individual schools are meeting the crises arising. Clothing needs arise in every school, each principal being able to cite instances in which children in his district, were unable to attend school because they lacked the necessary garments.

Inverstigating these cases has led to a wider application of good will toward man" in almost every case. At Roosevelt school for instance, Miss Verna Wells, principal, investigating one case, found a family in need of garments for children of different ages, but in extreme need of infant's wear. In meeting the requirements of this particular case, Miss Wells sought the aid of friends at the same time maintaining the confidence of the family in question, whose members were fearful of any publicity that might make them seem objects of charity.

Create Aid Fund

At Edison school, which may be chosen at random as being typical of all the grade schools of the system, Mrs. Hazel M. Maxwell, principal, and the teachers of her staff, have worked out a plan whereby each teacher contributed $5 to a general fund for aiding families of school children in the district. When this initial fund was dissipated, a second levy was made, and the same plan will be continued throughout the year or until conditions improve.

Mrs. Maxwell as principal, supervises the lunch hour of the pupils, and in this way learned of the actual need of milk and food supplies. Through the Parent-Teacher association, milk for 20 children is furnished daily, and other supplies are given out.

"We frequently learn of cases of need through requests for employment," Mrs. Maxwell stated, pointing out that such cases are aided whenever possible, and many situations of absolute want averted.

Representative Case

Because so many of these families cannot be reached by ordinary channels of charity, conditions are complicated for the different schools. In one of the grammar schools there is a little family of four children, not all of whom can attend school at once because of lack of clothing. The father has no work, and pride prevents him from making an appeal to the associated charities, it is reported. An older daughter of the home is an expert stenographer, but there is a dearth of positions and she is unable to obtain work in her line.

This family is but a representative case in the hundreds that the grammar schools are meeting daily. Aid is given by the City League of Parents and Teachers, but each school finds it necessary to exercise its own skill in solving its individual problems. The city P.-T. A. finds its greatest clothing needs are for shoes and trousers, according to the president, Mrs. Roy Beall. A fund of $100 given by the City Teachers' league, has helped meet this need, but cases are arising daily. Bedding is another need, and almost a score of comforters have been completed and distributed in the past 10 days from the City P.-T. A. room in the board of education building on North Main street.

COURT ACTION IS ROSS CASE ECHO

The First National bank of Tustin has been awarded judgment by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel, for $1065.84 against Clayton H. Landreth, doing business as the Capistrano Rock and Sand company. The suit involved a promissory note.

According to the complaint Landreth gave the note to William W. Ross, former truck dealer here who now is in San Quentin on a grand theft charge, on October 20, 1929. The note later was assigned to the bank, the complaint said.

In his answer Landreth asserted that Ross had cancelled the note and there was nothing due on it, the cancellation having been consideration for return of trucks purchased on contract by Landreth.

It is planned to print 5000 copies and to have them distributed to parents by the students. No definite schedule of publication dates has been announced but the paper will appear several times during the school year.

A. D. Hoenshel, of the junior college faculty, is chairman of the editorial board of 12 members representing all the schools.

The paper will be printed in the high school and junior college print shop under the direction of T. E. Williams, director of printing.

INTERESTING TRAVEL LECTURE AT SCHOOL

Tracing the growth of his hobby which is the foundation for his book "Western Trails", M. A. Speer, author and traveller, spoke last night at Frances Willard Junior High school under auspices of the adult education department of the city schools and the travel bureau of the Commercial National bank.

Speer has collected pictures on his tours through the southwest which he placed in 20 large volumes, several of which were on display last night. His lecture was presented as a travelogue, illustrated by approximately 400 colored slides.

Many of the scenes in his book "Western Trails" have been visited by Speer and were described last night. Principal among these places described and pictured were Salt Lake City, Bryce Canyon, Southern Utah and the Grand Canyon.

Reindeer Coming To Santa Ana

The Santa Ana Boosters have done it again.

This time it is Santa Claus' raindeer for Santa Ana.

Through an announcement made today by Norman Sprowl, secretary-manager of the Boosters' club, it was learned that a committee of Boosters was in direct contact with Santa Claus headquarters at the North Pole last night, and Santa has promised to send the reindeer to Santa Ana for a parade later in the month.

Details of the trip of the reindeer to Santa Ana were not completed today, other than the fact that it was thought they would be here for a parade on December 16. At that time, school children and those not yet big enough to go to school had better be ready to see them. Further details will be announced in The Register from time to time.

Getting the reindeer to Santa Ana just before Christmas was a tough old job, because Santa Claus is a busy man right at this time and he couldn't even stop long enough to talk about the trip, until Norman Sprowl, E. G. Warner, Rodney Bacon and W. B. Williams, Boosters all, made him listen for awhile. Now appearance of the reindeer is assured.

NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Announcing a new telephone directory for Orange county, E. S. Morrow, district commercial manager of the Southern California Telephone company, said today that new developments in printing and constant study of efficiency methods have made possible the production of the December directory in 27 days as compared with 47 days which was the time required for the task four years ago.

Telephone company employes will start delivering the books in the business and residential sections of the city next Monday. Directories for rural subscribers will be sent through the mail.

Following the telephone company's policy of patronizing home industry in every way possible the books were printed in Santa Ana by A. G. Flagg. It is the first directory issued by the company since last May. It is the usual custom of the company to issue a revised book every six months.

Morrow said that the increased number of subscribers since the last issue of the directory made it necessary to print 18,000 books this time to serve the entire county.

Morrow said that an example of America's telephone leadership over foreign countries is shown by comparing the new book issued for Orange county with one of the Central American telephone books. According to the book issued for Guatemala city, that community has 4.3 telephones per 100 people while in Orange county there are 15 telephones to each 100 population. Orange county has approximately 18,000 telephones while the seven countries of Central America, combined, have but 23,650 telephones.

Betrothal is Revealed By Dainty Floral Arrangements

Revelations of romance were the corsage bouquets of rose and yellow sweet peas which served as favors yesterday afternoon at a charming affair given by Mrs. Glenn N. Coon in her home, 807 Orange avenue, announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Maurie Coon, to Edward J. Grothier, of this city. Tied to the pretty floral clusters were tiny envelopes bearing news of the approaching wedding, planned as an event of "the near future."

The flowers were distributed late in the afternoon during the refreshment hour when ice-cream moulds, individual angel-food cakes, mints and coffee were served with other delicacies. The menu itself was in keeping with the attractive rose and lemon-yellow color theme which the hostess observed in all her appointments.

Nosegays of sweet peas combined the chosen colors, and centered the small tables where nut cups and other appointments were especially attractive. Throughout the rooms, yellow chrysanthemums and pink carnations and roses were arranged in large bouquets.

A session of bridge had preceded the delightful refreshment hour. Prizes for scoring high and low were awarded to Arbor Vitae club members present, with Mrs. A. L. Lane and Mrs. Zelma Swan high and low scorers. Among other guests present, Mrs. Belle Rugg held high honors and Mrs. K. E. Hillestad low. Gift wroppings and bridge tallies carried out the yellow and rose motif.

Those present from this city, other than Mrs. Coon, the hostess, and Miss Coon, the honoree, were Mesdames Charles Hawthorne, A. L. Lane, H. D. McIlvain, Howard McIlvain, Peter McIntosh, Ralph Fuller, W. A. Atkinson, Ray Walter, Zelma Swan, Mary Hertert, William Madeira, Jasper Kearns, William Almas, H. E. Hillestad, L. G. Butler, Addie Lowe, Leland Coon and the Misses Alice Houseman and Helen Westering.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Helen Kutch, Huntington Park; Mrs. Rolf Kutch, Walnut Park; Mrs. Belle Rugg, Los Angeles; Mrs. James Brown, Inglewood; Mrs. William Watkins, Brea; Mrs. O. B. Faucett, Costa Mesa and Miss May Gordon, Vancouver, B. C.

Various social events are being planned in honor of Miss Coon.

Christmas Program Honors Charter Members

A Christmas meeting dedicated in spirit to some of the charter members of the Third Household Economics section of Ebell society, to the organization's president and retiring president, and to a number of out-of-town guests who have been interested in the section was held by the members of that group at the Ebell clubhouse yesterday afternoon.

Each of the guests was called upon by Mrs. W. B. Risk, section president, for a few words, and among those responding were Mrs. Paul Bailey, Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, Mrs. M. M. Holmes, and Mrs. Charles Carothers. Among charter members to speak were Mrs. M. L. Willits, Mrs. C. F. Bennett and Mrs. T. H. Dobson, first leader of the section. Other guests included Mrs. Catherine Skiles, a former member; Mrs. William Stockslager of Los Angeles, Mrs. Nora Kyle of Glendale and Mrs. Jessie Searls of Pasadena.

Each visitor expressed briefly her appreciation of the work of the section, and, in the case of the earlier members, the measure in which the section had been personally beneficial. Particularly interesting were the words of Mrs. Bennett, one of the oldest of the charter members, who declared herself to be greatly impressed by the new Junior Ebell undertaking and expressed a lively interest in the future of that society.

Mrs. Mary Lindsay was admitted as a new member.

Three luncheon tables were spread for members and their guests and were centered with bouquets of red roses, appropriate to a Christmas theme. Baskets of cotoneaster adorned the lounge, where a reception was held following the luncheon, which was concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," led by Mrs. C. F. Crose. Each guest was presented with a corsage of roses and maidenhair fern.

Officers of the section served as hostesses yesterday, these including Mesdames W. R. Risk, F. T. Preble, F. L. Andrews, A. N. Cox, and C. W. Rairdon. Mrs. Fred Robinson, in general charge of the luncheon, was prevented by illness from attending.

Native Daughters Have Day of Sewing in Ellis Home

An ideal setting for a day of sociability and sewing was found Thursday in the attractive home of Mrs. D. W. Ellis, Greenville, where members of the Native Daughters' Thimble club met for an all-day session. A large fireplace with a blazing fire contributed a hospitable note to the occasion.

Members were surprised indeed when they learned that their hostess had prepared creamed chicken and toothsome accessories as the main dish of the covered-dish luncheon served early in the afternoon. In completing the surprise features of the menu, D. W. Ellis, as host, provided delicious vanilla ice-cream for dessert.

A large bowl of wild Christmas berries centered the table. In serving, Mrs. Ellis had the assistance of Mrs. Grace Froehlich and Tillie Froehlich.

Christmas Activities Planned at Session Of Auxiliary

Devoting most of the session to making plans for distributing holiday joy, members of the American Legion auxiliary met last evening in the Legion hall, with Mrs. E. F. Mathews in charge.

A discussion of the party to be held Friday evening, December 11 in the Legion hall for the benefit of non-compensated veterans in hospitals, took place. The cedar chest which is to be awarded as a prize at this time was on display, and it was announced that it will be exhibited next week in a downtown window.

Plans for a co-operative sale of veteran-made articles were made. It was decided to have the sale sometime before Christmas, with Mrs. Ruth Jellis in charge. Appropriately, Mrs. Beulah Curran, of Anaheim, district co-operative sales chairman, was a special guest at the meeting, together with Mrs. Harriet Boyd of the same city, county council vice-president.

It was decided to send $5 a month to the state rehabilitation committee and to purchase tuberculosis seals. Several bed jackets which members had made for the sick in hospitals, were brought to the meeting.

Following the business session, members of the auxiliary assisted in getting barrels in readiness for the Legion to place in stores of the community. It is hoped that the barrels will be filled with food for the unemployed.

Members will have a Christmas tree and gift exchange at their next meeting, Thursday, December 17.

Neighborhood Club Plans Christmas Celebration

That friendly intimacy which brings together the women of North Ross street for meetings of their Stitch and Chatter club, distinguished the hospitality extended yesterday afternoon by Mrs. R. Earl Elliott, who entertained in her home at 1212 North Ross street.

The "stitchery" of the afternoon was devoted to dainty articles being completed for Christmas gifts, while the "chatter" was general, and applied to various affairs of current interest including plans for the annual Christmas meeting of the club, which will be with Miss Pauline Graham, 831 North Garnsey street. At this event, the members will observe their customary gift exchange, and also will bring donations for a Yuletide basket to go to some deserving and needy family.

In serving a delectable cocanut pudding with crisp wafers and coffee, Mrs. Elliott made her trays colorful by using scarlet nut cups with the dainty doilies. Adding atmosphere to the refreshment hour, was the arrangement of the dining table, where two large plush "Felix cats," stood guard over a bowl headed with brilliant autumn fruits.

Sharing the pleasant afternoon were Mrs. Elliott, the hostess, Mrs. William W. Adamson, Miss Miriam Adamson, Mrs. Ralph Crane, Mrs. Harold Dawson, Mrs. J. W. Hancock, Miss Grace Elliott, Mrs. Walter Ozment, Mrs. Starr Ozment, Mrs. Allie Ward, Mrs. Z. Bertrand West, Mrs. Charles Ryan, Mrs. J. F. Weekly, Mrs. J. S. The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Filling Christmas Boxes

In spite of our state of permanent bentness, we find ourselves as the Christmas season approaches planning little things we can make and give. How about Christmas sweets? Everyone uses grapefruit. Save the peel and make candied grapefruit peel (see directions). Attractive boxes could be filled with this candied peel, with some salted almonds and a few stuffed dates. For extra good measure, dip slices of candied citron into dipping chocolate and put a few on top of the box.

The stuffed dates should be prepared shortly before the sweets are to be given. A quick and delicious filling can be made by mixing salted butter and powdered sugar to a stiff cream, filling it with chopped nuts or shredded cocoanut.

Candied Grapefruit Peel

As the peel becomes available, scan out the soft part with a spoon, drop into a pitcher of water, which must be changed daily. When sufficient peel has accumulated (6 grapefruit make a good batch), boil it changing the water several times while cooking. When soft drain overnight, and in the morning cut into strips and drop into a very heavy sugar syrup made in proportions of 2 cups of sugar to the juice of 1 grapefruit and 1 lemon, plus any good canned fruit juice you may have available. Boil the syrup to the soft ball stage, put in the strips of peel, reduce the heat and simmer until the peel has absorbed the syrup and has taken on a transparent look. Put some sugar into a big pan, turn the candied peel onto it and let it cool and dry out. Next day roll each piece in granulated sugar and store in a covered box.

Make it once a week until Christmas and you'll have enough to make up several nice boxes of delicious home-made sweets.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Creole Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped onion (1 medium sized onion.)
2 tablespoons flour
1-4 cup stock
1 small can of sliced mushrooms
2 chopped green peppers
1 cup strained tomato pulp
Salt, pepper and cayenne as desired.

Half of a meat cubs dissolved in a quarter cup of water makes the broth. Melt the butter in a saucepan, put in the finely chopped onion, green pepper and sliced mushrooms. Saute to a golden brown. Add the flour and stir smooth, then the tomato pulp and broth. Stir constantly while the sauce is thickening and cooking, then place over hot water to ripen the flavors. Season as desired before serving. If a browner sauce is desired, add a few drops of kitchen boquet.

Some one has asked me to give suggestions for "what to serve with baked fish?" First of all, plan to serve a tangy sauce similar to this one to complement baked fish, with tartar sauce for the breaded and fried fish filets (sole, halibut and salmon). For vegetables serve whatever you like best, only have the potatoes au gratin or baked and stuffed.

The quantities given in the Creole sauce recipe will serve six. The calories per person will be exactly 75, mildly energetic in makeup.

BREA COUNCIL GETS 11 BIDS ON WATER PIPE

BREA, Dec. 4. — Representatives of 11 firms were present at Wednesday night's meeting of the Brea city council to tender bids on the four-inch and six-inch cast iron pipe and fittings needed in the water improvement program for which the city recently voted a $20,000 bond issue. Bids were submitted by the Standard Pipe and Supply company, the Grinnell company, C. G. Claussen & Company, Reliable Iron Company, National Cast Iron & Pipe company, Pacific States Cast Iron company, United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry company, Pike-Simmons company, Santa Fe Pipe & Supply company, and John C. Blystone, local contractor.

Following the reading of the bids the council announced its intention of turning over to City Engineer George Bates and Street Superintendent Fred Boxall to pass upon their validity as to requirements and specifications and the representatives were told that no contracts would be let until the next meeting date of the council.

Elmer J. Kennedy, Los Angeles, a broker, was presented to the council by City Attorney Albert Launer. After speaking briefly of the condition of the condition of the bond market, Kennedy asked for a ten-day option on the bonds, which he agreed to sell at 5½ per cent on a 40-year basis. The option was granted and Kennedy expressed himself as certain of making the sale before the expiration of the option at noon of December 9. An adjourned meeting of the council is to be held on the evening of that date in order to speed up action on the work in hand and give employment to several needy men of the city. Kennedy also submitted samples of paper and copies of bonds and quoted prices of printing but no definite action was taken on those matters. Bonds will be printed in denominations of $500, one bond to be retired each year of the 40 year period.

The story of a youth who starts in a tailor shop and through his brilliant ideas plus a suit of clothes he steals from the tailoring shop, makes good in a big business way. The usual stage frolic and stage stunts will be on the program for this week and plans for a Christmas meeting of the club will be told by Manager Walter S. Smith. The Mickey Mouse club meets at 1 p. m. each Saturday.

"BILL AND ANDY" AGAIN AT WALKERS

Brimful of action and thrills, Bill Cody and 12-year-old Andy Shuford come to Walker's State theater today in "Land of Wanted Men," fourth of the popular "Bill and Andy" series.

From the fast-moving opening sequence when Bill Cody is summarily inducted into the office of sheriff and given orders to rid the county of sheepmen, which precipitates him into a rousing battle with the worst bad man in the West, until the brilliant denouement, when Bill, aided by little Andy, makes a flying mount from the balcony of a building and rides out of town to capture his erstwhile assailant, "Land of Wanted Men" is Action with a big "A".

PARIS PHANTOM STARTS TODAY AT WEST COAST

"The Phantom of Paris," which will head the bill at the Fox West Coast theater today, finds John Gilbert, the screen's most perfect lover, in a totally new type of role. Not only does Gilbert play the part of a magician but, by a trick of makeup, also slips into the part of a marquis, an entirely different character, suave, cold blooded and ruthless. He returns to his real self at the end of the picture, a trick of acting that calls forth the utmost talents of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star.

"The Phantom of Paris" is the essence of newness, in plot, in splendor of settings and gowns and in filming. The plot brings out an entirely new and involved intriguing situation; ardent love sets a seemingly insurmountable impasse, cold-blooded murder, quick turns and unusual developments.

The cast of "The Phantom of Paris" is an unusual one, including Leila Hyams, as the girl; Lewis Stone, Jean Hersholt, C. Aubrey Smith and Natalie Moorehead and Ian Keith.

'AROUND WORLD IN 80 MINUTES' AT BROADWAY

Douglas Fairbanks takes his audience around the world in his latest picture "Around the World in 80 Minutes," which opened yesterday at the Fox Broadway theater.

A new type of entertainment, the picture is not a travelogue nor is it a news-reel, but an entertaining feature of a man's journey to the far corners of the world, produced in a manner that wins instant approval.

Fairbanks tells the story of every foot of the film. It is not the usual dry monologue so often heard in travel pictures, for Fairbanks has stayed away from the facts and figures that generally go with such scenes. He is witty and entertaining throughout and the 80 minutes required to show the film speed by at a rapid pace, because the audience is so engrossed in the remarkable sights its sees, together with the various explanations made during the showing.

China, with its walls and its strange customs to India where tiger hunting predominates, through England and in every country heard of this remarkable picture takes its audience and it will be a long time before another such film can compare with it from an entertainment standpoint or from one of educational value.

Beach Title Suit Is Compromised At Conference

CITY IS GIVEN STRIP 3750 BY 300 FT. IN DEAL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 4.—The beach title suit brought by the city was settled yesterday afternoon by compromises, the city getting free of charge the ocean front from Main street to the east city limits, a strip 3750 feet long and 300 feet wide. The city two years ago agreed to buy this strip of beach from the Standard Oil company and Huntington Beach company at a cost of $252,000.

The sale failed of consumation when the sellers wanted to insert many reservations. Following the breaking off of negotiations for the sale the city broughts uit for title on the grounds that the beach properly belonged to the city by public dedication and use. This suit is now pending for judicial decision.

The meeting held to arrange the compromise was not public. The city was represented by the five city councilmen, W. H. Berg represented the Standard Oil company; G. H. Crawford, the Huntington Beach company; D. W. Pontius, the Pacific Electric company; C. G. Ward and Willis H. Warner, the Business Men's association; American Legion, Verne Keller, commander; L. H. Bennigsdorf, vice commander; L. E. Mitchell, adjutant; Ralph Charter, Herb Gray and Fred Kirkpatrick, the last three named composing the community betterment committee of the Joseph Rodman post, American Legion. Fred Kirkpatrick brought the matter of a compromise before the American Legion originally and worked hard to obtain the endorsement of the post.

Following is the compromise agreemnt as signed at the meeting:

"In connection with the suit of Huntington Beach, the matter will be arranged so that the city of Huntington Beach will be given a perpetual easement for public, recreational, park and playground purposes, and other uses appurtenant or incidental thereto, for all of the property east of the west line of Main street to the east line of the property included in the suit with the understanding that he city will assume any axes or assessments against the property for which perpetual easement is given; with the further understanding that title to the balance of the property involved in he suit is to be cleared to defendants by stipulated judgment.

Mineral rights will be reserved to the defendants in the suit, without right of entry."

Mayor Conrad proposed as a first offer of compromise that the city be given thebeach from Tenth street to the east city limits. This was refused by the companies. Later, Mayor Conrad proposed that the city be given from the west line of Main street to the east city limits and this was the proposition that was finally agreed upon and signed.

Mayor Conrad said he considered the acquisition of the beach front one of the major accomplishments in the progress of the city of Huntington Beach.

The city several years ago brought suit for title to the beach between Seventeenth and Main streets. A change of administration following an election resulted in a new city attorney being selected and Attorney Lewis W. Blodget being retired from office. The new administration dismissed the former beach suit.

The suit which was compromised at the meeting yesterday was started while S. R. Brown was mayor and was fought through by Mayor Elson G. Conrad.

Following is a statement issued by City Attorney L. W. Blodget regarding the compromise:

"After maintaining for more than six years that the beach at Huntington Beach belonged to the public, I feel that the compromise of our litigation with the Huntington Beach company, the Standard Oil company and the Pacific Electric Railway company is a moral victory for the city. While I feel that victory would have resulted for the city in the event of a final decision through the courts, I realize that such a final decision could not be reached for several years, and the uncertainty of the final outcome, and the inability of the city to improve and care for the beach in the meantime, is ample reason for the settlement accepted by our city council. The result has justified the attitude taken by the council in instituting this litigation. As a result of the bringing of this suit, the companies have presented to the city, without cost, the property which they tried to sell to the city for more than a quarter of a million dollars two years ago."

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

How to Stop Rheumatic Misery In Less Than a Week or Money-Back

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous rheumatic poisons that every year makes thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now.

RU-MA acts on the blood, kidneys and liver, and helps drive the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day or nothing to pay.

An internal medicine should be used to free the joints and muscles of crippling rheumatic stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

McCoy Drug Store says: No matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must stop your rheumatic agony or you get your money back. —Adv.

MISSION WORK OUTLINED FOR PLACENTIA C. C.

PLACENTIA, Dec. 4.—The mission schools established by the Franciscan friars were the first manual training schools in California, and in them the teachers trained a destitute people to become self supporting and good citizens, the Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan, in charge of the San Juan Capistrano mission, told members of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

The Rev. Father O'Sullivan, introduced by Archie Raitt, who with A. S. Bradford was host at the dinner, talked on the work at the San Juan mission. He said when he first went to the mission 21 years ago, it had not been occupied since 1884. At present the place is in good repair and is being used "for service to man as well as a place to worship God." More than 140 children are attending the mission school. The course of study is similar to that in other schools, except the students get doctrinal training and more manual work than the average.

Next week Mrs. Olive Bailey, Mrs. Nellie Cline, Mrs. T. L. McFadden, Mrs. C. H. Copeland, Mrs. V. C. Barbre and Miss Elsa Raffi, six women who attend the meetings regularly, will have charge of the dinner and a surprise program.

"It's wonderful for frying"

says MRS. R. H. JOHNSON of 1148 Stockbridge Ave., Los Angeles

Golden brown fritters—crisp croquettes so easy now with this fat that fries without smoke or odor

"IT'S clear as a crystal when it melts... and so pure! Of course, I'm delighted with its high smoke point that keeps my kitchen fresh and odorless. But this assurance that my French fries and fritters can't possibly taste of the frying kettle, strikes me most of all."

Most every cook who tries Parfay finds some virtue she prizes more than any of the rest. Maybe it's Parfay's instant creaming... fastest of all shortenings. Maybe the flaky pie crusts or light biscuits it produces. But no matter what point they choose as most important, they all concede one thing. That this new blended shortening does everything perfectly!

So test Parfay for your own pet quality. You're bound to find it, just as thousands of other California cooks have. And you'll agree, there never before has been a shortening like Parfay!

$10,000,000 SHEEP BUSINESS

PHOENIX, Ariz.—A recent check up of the sheep business in Arizona exemplified the fact that large industries grow from humble beginnings. Arizona's first sheep were brought in from California in 1875 by John Clark. He had 3,000 head. Today the sheep and wool business, exclusive of national forest grazing right and sheep trails through the mountains, is valued at $10,000,000.

Now science shows why KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN acts so GENTLY

HERE are scientific reasons for the benefits of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Tests prove ALL-BRAN contains "bulk," Vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Vitamin B helps tone the intestinal tract.

Nature demands these two essentials to function properly. For that reason, ALL-BRAN is far better than pills or drugs, which stimulate artificial action.

Two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will overcome most types of constipation. If you suffer from intestinal trouble not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a good source of blood-building iron. Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Four thousand people coming to call

FOUR THOUSAND people every year — what a lot of guests that is! Four thousand people making the journey to Crockett, the sugar town. Who can they be? Why do they come? What will these visitors find? What can be drawing so many sightseers to this tiny California town?

Many the reasons that bring them here, and many the types that come. And the C and H Sugar colony is proud to welcome them all. Teachers they are, and home makers, and delegations from women's clubs. Domestic science experts, grocers, students of community life. An endless list of people interested in seeing the place where twenty-six hundred tons of pure cane sugar can be produced in a single day — of men and women who come to see the flowered village which C and H has helped to build — of officials from other sugar companies who stay to study the methods and machines of this, the largest sugar refinery in the world. And this year there may be many, many more—for this year C and H celebrates its Silver Anniversary.

Some day, you yourself must come to Crockett, as thousands do every year. Walk through this vast refinery — marvel at its cleanliness, its next-to-magic machines. Wander among the workers' cottages, ablaze with lovely blossoms. Watch the town at its work and its play — visit its parks, and its playgrounds and schools. Perhaps you will leave, as so many before you have done, saying, "No wonder C and H MENU Sugars are so very pure and fine. Could they be anything less than best — with such a refinery — with such a town?"

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The dog [illegible] up and said, "I'd be a thoughtless pup if I should only thank you for the things that you have done. So you will very shortly learn that I'll do something in return. I have a plan that I am sure you'll think a lot of fun."

"Well, say, that's fine! What is your plan?" cried Coppy. "I'll do all I can to make it lots of fun for everybody in this bunch. Just lead the way. We'll trail along and maybe break out in a song. I'm anxious now to find out all about your little bunch."

So, as they wandered down the street, the Tinies' voices, soft and sweet, began to bring forth harmony. 'Twas very nice to hear. "Where we are bound for we don't know. But what's the difference, on we go! We know it will be some place else because it isn't here."

Then Scouty asked the pup to sing. His song was quite an awful [illegible] words at all. Just howling, very loud! He did it till it made him puff. Then Clowny shouted, "That's enough! I fear you'll break the eardrums of this happy little crowd."

And then they reached the big surprise. It was a treat for all their eyes. "Just look ahead," the pup exclaimed. "What is it that you see?" "A circus tent," one Tiny cried. "Oh, gee, come on, let's go inside. A circus underneath a tent is always great to me."

They reached the tent and looked around and shortly heard a funny sound. "That is a little band inside," said Scouty, with a grin. "This is a wondrous place to halt and it will be our own sweet fault if we don't have a real good time, when once we all are in."

Along the trail no automobile can follow. . . . A glimpse of a pack train en route to isolated Boulder, Utah.

In Boulder rodeos, bull-dogging and steer roping are the most popular sports. . . . "Ride 'em, cowboy!" is often heard in this bad lands section.

How They Live in America's Remotest Town

They take the automobiles apart and carry the pieces by packhorse into Boulder, Utah, cattleman's paradise without a doctor, a movie, a store or a beauty shoppe

One of the belles of Boulder, and her little sister, standing beside one of the autos which were brought into town in pieces, on muleback.

TO visit the distant town of Boulder, Utah, is like turning back the pages of history to the chapter on wild west and frontier day romance.

Surrounded by high, impassable box canyons which are bordered by sheer cliffs 800 feet high and which have beds of quicksand and quagmire at the bottom, Boulder is about as far away from the outside world as any spot in the United States.

Not long ago the United States Geodetic Survey tried to find the most remote spot in the United States—the spot farthest removed from railroad, telephone, telegraph and wagon road. It discovered this to be a small ranch on Cottonwood Butte, in the Idaho mountains.

But Boulder is assuredly the most remote town in the country.

It is 100 miles in an airline from Boulder to the nearest railroad—and much farther by any roadway.

No highway leads into Boulder except for one trail 18 miles long, which it takes a whole day to travel. Access to the village is tedious and difficult. Even the mail comes in by pack mule over this route, which has been blasted through vertical sandstone ledges and built up along treacherous "blow sand" in which horses and wagons easily get stuck.

A typical home in the nation's "remotest town." . . . The residence of Bishop C. V. Baker, the only person of authority in the entire town.

THE little village itself lies in a narrow valley about one mile wide and eight miles long. The dwellings are scattered up and down this valley—scattered because the home owners are cattle raisers and space is one thing that is needed in cow country.

"The cattlemen of Boulder are a hospitable lot once one reaches their town, however," reports Francis W. Woods, surveyor for the U. S. Forest Service at Ogden, Utah, back from a visit to this isolated village—the cattleman's paradise in the heart of the Rockies.

"When a stranger comes to Boulder he is given a royal western welcome—an old-time dance in the schoolhouse. The whole community turns out, the men in high boots and cowboy attire.

"The schoolhouse, which also serves as a church, is half way up the valley, and when a dance is given there a crowd is assured—with no curfew law in effect.

"To the tune of 'Turkey in the Straw,' and also some of the latest fox trot and waltz numbers, played by fiddles, mouth organs and a piano which has been carried over the perilous trail into the valley, the visitor dances with the belles of the valley."

The inhabitants of Boulder have a fine water supply and wonderful range land—land that is making them wealthy. Water comes from Boulder Mountain, out of Boulder Creek, which in turn empties into the Colorado River. This water supply keeps the cattle healthy and their owners happy in the midst of the bad lands.

BOULDER MOUNTAIN, about 10 miles north of the city, stands guard over the stock and the few human inhabitants below. This mountain is about 11,000 feet high, is practically flat on top and has an area of about 70 square miles. There is a high rim about 500 to 800 feet high on the north, east and south sides.

Here is found the finest range land in the world. On top of this plateau, grass grows so tall it touches the stirrups as the cowboys ride the range.

Hundreds of lakes, creeks and streams and large open range areas are found here amid the spruce timber where cattle graze, insuring an unfailing water supply.

"Cattle rustling is impossible, for thieves are unable to scale this Boulder Mountain rim at any place excepting where the trails have been built," says Forester Woods, "and these lead to Boulder, where all the inhabitants know each other."

Directly under this plateau there are some more excellent pasture lands. Three trails lead down the south face of the plateau. This grazing area does not extend far below the rim, however—just two or three miles before the country drops into the sandstone to a canyon country.

Rain comes very easily to the Boulder Mountain ranges and when it comes, cattlemen seek shelter. It rains hard when it starts. Freezing on the mountain begins in July.

BULLDOGS instead of collies are used by the cattlemen of Boulder, because of the thick brush on the ranges. The bulldogs slip through the heavy foliage, their glossy backs escaping the clinging, thick bushes.

The dogs are well trained and round-up the cattle while the cow hands sit astride their horses in the clearings. At round-up time the dogs are kept busy keeping the animals on the narrow trails from the Boulder plateau to the branding corrals and cattle yards.

In Boulder rodeos, bulldogging and steer roping are sports which are most popular of all. These activities fit right in the regular day's work with the cattlemen.

"Ride 'em, cowboy!" is often heard in this bad lands section, with cowboys astride equine cyclones, testing their skill at staying on top of plunging horses.

Girls as well as the men ride horses, the women in true western style, astride, galloping over the flats with their hair streaming out behind them. Beauty shops are unknown in Boulder and few women bob their hair. Like all other American women, however, they use powder and lipsticks.

THERE are no doctors in Boulder, nor dentists. Births are taken care of by midwives. Sometimes the expectant mothers go over the mountain trail to Escalante, Utah, and the babies are born in this larger community. There are only about 27 families in Boulder, but the families are large ones.

Women of Boulder are of a hardy type, and many of them scoff at the idea of a trip to the neighboring city when the stork hovers over their homes. Also, in the winter time and during stormy weather the trail is impassable, even to the pack train.

No law officers are to be found in all of the cattle town of Boulder. The only person of authority is a Mormon bishop. Under the bishop are counsellors, priests and deacons. Church, held in the schoolhouse, is a solemn occasion. Although the women are unable to hold offices in the church, they worship at the side of their husbands.

Polygamy long ago was abandoned by the Mormons and naturally is not in evidence at Boulder.

A tithe of 10 per cent of their earnings is paid to the Mormon church by the cattlemen—cash from the profits of their cattle, horses and hay and grains.

BOULDER has no real store. A general supply house keeps the cattlemen stocked up. Supplies such as are unavailable to certain families are also brought in from Escalante or by mail. If one wants various foodstuffs or commodities, they are taken in trade from a neighbor.

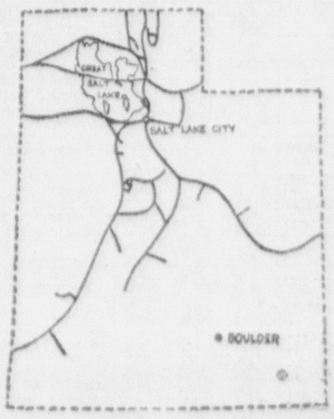
No movies are found in Boulder and most of the residents have not as yet heard a "talkie." The Mormons are a drama-loving people, however, and often one-act and three-act plays are given by members of the community in the dimly-lighted old schoolhouse.

There is plenty of romance in Boulder. The moon shines beautifully at night over the rocky mountains that guard the little isolated community.

And auto rides beneath the sheltering crags, and picnics on week-ends, after church, are not uncommon, for while horses are the main means of transportation to and from this cattleman's paradise, automobiles are found at Boulder. A few of them have found their way there.

The cars are taken apart at Escalante and carried over the mountain trail by pack mule and then reassembled in the valley.

Once the automobiles are in Boulder, however, they are seldom taken out again. It is too much trouble for the natives to drag them piece by piece to Escalante. In the winter time an auto may be driven over the blow sand in some places, but most of the cars are brought in in the tedious process, one part at a time, by pack train. Cars all carry the proper license numbers each year.



The map makes Boulder's isolation plain . . . showing how the nearest railroads are 100 miles distant "as the crow flies."

THERE is one blacksmith in Boulder, and he is kept busy at times, with so many riding horses and teams to be shod. He knows all of the rancher customers by name, and many of the horses' names as well.

No ranches or homes in Boulder are for sale. Nor are they for rent, either. The residents all like their tiny, growing and prosperous community where there are no salaries for mayors, councilmen, policemen and firemen. The money the cattlemen make is all their own—to do with as they please.

Besides, the cattle business is a paying one, indeed. Some of the residents of Boulder are worth as high as $20,000, and more.

Cattlemen have time for hunting in Boulder, and hunting is excellent. Wild game of all kinds abounds in the mountain ranges. When the housewives tire of beef, the head of the house shoulders a rifle and they dine on venison.

The fish crowd the creeks, and while the cowboys ride herd on the cattle, the camp tender fishes for the evening meal.

Well educated are the younger sets in Boulder. In the fall before the snow flies one of the women is selected to go with a family of youngsters to Escalante. There she cooks for them while they attend school there. Others study the three "R's" in the Boulder schoolhouse. When the children grow up some of them to go to the Utah Agricultural College.

Anaheim Five To Open Dons' Basket Season

playing in a businesslike manner. Fred Brooks and Seacord, fresh from Coach Bill Cook's grid squad, loom as leading contenders for regular positions, but some of those who reported may make the competition sweet. Gaspar, for instance, was a dead-shot for Santa Ana Hi in 1930, and Johnson played one year for Long Beach junior college. Johnson, a tall, rangy blond, is patterned for a basketeer.

Individualism, characteristic of Santa Ana's 1930 quintet, will be replaced this season by teamwork, Foote believes. Each player displayed intermittent streaks of brilliance last year with Orville Schuhardt, Hal Dunham and Don Johnson starring at different times. Most of the present crop of candidates has worked together at one time or the other and should show excellent teamwork before the Dons meet Chaffey here January 9 in the conference opener.

With Christmas vacation beginning December 16, there remain only eight more drills unless there are enough unemployed condidates to warrant daily practice sessions during the holidays. If between 15 or 20 players can report, Foote will conduct holiday drill, he said.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The German debt problem and possibility of that country going off the gold standard were held responsible today for a violent break in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, a break to new lows of nearly all German bonds, a downturn in grains, and softness in bank shares.

Thes tock market shot down near the close when U. S. Steel went below its previous resistance level selling at 51, off 2¼ points.

Opening hingher, the stock market rose in the early trading. By noon a reaction had brought the list back to the previous close. Then selling increased. Volume increased on the late setback.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Renewed selling came into the curb market after an early display of frimnes and heaviness in individual stocks lent a ragged appearance to price movements in the general list.

Electric Bond and Share encountered renewed pressure and sold off ½ point while an early gain of more than a point in American Gas was cancelled.

BEHOLD THE LOS ANGELES TIMES!

Today the Los Angeles Times printed its fiftieth anniversary edition. For forty-seven years The Times has been printing a midwinter number filled with pictures and articles which glorified the southland. This year the midwinter edition is combined with the fiftieth anniversary of the founding, by General Harrison Gray Otis, of the Los Angeles Times itself. In looking the paper over, one is at once impressed with the historic importance of this edition and then, immediately one's thought is projected into the future and one thereby arrives at a wonderful sense of continuity. The first section of this edition which glorifies the achievements of the past is dedicated to the future.

The Los Angeles Times of this date will be really precious to those who are interested in the history of Southern California. It tells how it began and pictures show the conditions before the south began to grow. Sections that follow continue the story of these fifty years. And it is here that the historian will be inspired with the worth of this edition for there are pictures of old buildings, old streets, four corners, which are fading memories in the mind of man. The growth is illustrated by photographs which leave no doubt of the truth of the most optimistic stories of California enthusiasts. Pictures that have been taken at practically the same points at different periods in the past fifty years present a wonderful story of development which has never been equalled anywhere.

Throughout, one is never permitted to forget the continuity of time. The present and future are projected as one pours over the photographs.

A complete facsimile of the Los Angeles Daily Times as it appeared Sunday morning December 4, 1881, is incorporated in the anniversary edition and most interesting it is. There are quaint editorial heads, and advertising on the front page, together with items clipped from the New York Sun and New York Telegram. The advertisements are of the Ladies' "Bazar" and the millinery "emporium."

Remarkable skill has gone into this Los Angeles Times of this day. Newspaper history has been made. There is displayed a breadth of understanding, of human interest and mechanical and artistic achievement which deserves the highest praise. This isn't just another midwinter edition, fine as those always were, this is a paper to be kept intact and saved, for its importance is obvious. It reaches back into the past and its interest will extend far into the future.

The memorial edition is in harmony with the strong editorial policy and its activity in all civic undertakings throughout the fifty years of its existence. The paper was founded by a strong and virile man and throughout the years has grown in purpose and power and leadership under Mr. Chandler.

HICCOUGHS IN THE NEWS

For a month past a new item of news has been arresting the attention of the readers of the newspapers. It is a matter as simple as the "hiccups." We have all had them, but we get over them by taking a drink of water, and in some cases when the drunk gets over his spree. When continued for a time it is a disagreeable malady, but as in the case of seasickness we have usually had the consolation that they would not last.

But now we are being told that a man in Mansfield, Ohio, another man in San Francisco, and a number of others scattered over the country have been hiccoughing until the malady wore them out, and they were in danger of death. In other words, a common malady which everybody has experienced, but which no one has considered serious, becomes a matter of national first page interest when it cannot be stopped.

This item of news shows how relative all things are. All matters are measured by degree, not simply by themselves. When a pain is brief we endure it without much ado. When it is incessant, it becomes a matter of family concern; and if sufficiently prolonged it becomes a matter of community and national interest. It all goes to prove what a neighborhood the world has become. Who, before the coming of the telegraph and the Associated or United Press, was interested in a man with the hiccoughs in Indiana, or even in San Francisco? Nothing that takes place in these days of rapid communication in all the world lacks interest if it be unusual. The man with the hiccoughs illustrates that.

BENEVOLENCES IN PROTESTANT CHURCHES

All the missionary organizations of the various Protestant denominations are in the midst of a financial crisis, so reports "The Christian Century" The gifts of the churches have dropped from 15 per cent to 25 per cent in the different denominations. Missionaries are being called home from the field. Activities are being curtailed. Great deficits are piling up. There is great uneasiness as well as distress among those charged with the administration of the affairs of these missionary organizations.

No doubt much of the distress is due to the financial and industrial depression which has overtaken the country. But there are those who assert that this is not the sole cause. They say that the church must change its religious emphases to meet the changing attitudes of men toward other races. The time was when it was believed that those of the "heathen" who died without the knowledge of Christ were doomed to everlasting perdition. With that belief there was both a great solicitude and haste to acquaint them with the "good news." That is no longer generally believed, altho it must be said that there are still many who do believe it. Following that motive to foreign missions, there were those who believed that the "heathen" need our civilization, which meant our civilization in terms of bath tubs, of industries, of movies, and all the other material comforts and practices of our industrial age. Well, the "heathen" began to find things in our civilization that were not so good. It led such a man as Gandhi to say that if to accept Christianity meant to take Western civilization he would turn thumbs down on both.

The more forward looking denominations are beginning to see that all religions have some good in them, and that the chief end of missionary endeavor is not to change a man's creed, but to enrich his life. Through education, through medical aid, through industrial guidance and through kindness and brotherly love, the modern missionaries of our advanced denominations are beginning to work. And there are those who believe that when that motive is stressed the treasuries of the missionary societies will again be filled.

We certainly would like to think that this would be the case; but there are certain attitudes which raise questions. We do not like to think of the deep prejudice against the negro. We do not like to think of the many who distrust the Oriental. We do not like to think of the growing sense of nationalism which looks across the border rather suspiciously at our neighbor. So long as these "heathen" were far away, it was easier to think kindly toward them. But when they crowd some of us on the street car, elbow us on the street, compete with us in the market, it is not so easy to think kindly of them.

We are not sitting in the seat of the scorner. We are just calling attention to a few facts which may account for the lack of missionary interest, and the changes which have to take place in most of us before we have a motive more urgent than that which moved those who started the foreign missionary enterprise.

Youth, Maturity, and Politics

Christian Science Monitor

One of the points most eagerly discussed in certain sections of the press concerning the personnel of the new British Cabinet has been the average age of its members, and some dissatisfaction has been expressed with the fact that this average is slightly higher than that of the Labor Cabinet of 1924.

This attitude is one of the manifestations of the demand for more youth in politics which has been so insistent in Britain for some time. One feels that perhaps this demand has been overdone. The essential meaning implied, of course, is irreproachable. At bottom it is a call for courage, vision, and initiative. But some unfortunate phraseology has been woven into it, obscuring the fact that these qualities may just as possibly be found in mature men as in striplings.

Experience is not everything, but it hardly should be regarded as a disqualification. The setting of an arbitrary term to men's activities is a policy often confuted by facts. It is significant that in the Labor Government one of the ministers who gave an unforgettable impression of freshness, brightness, and youthful enthusiasm was Mr. George Lansbury, in years one of the oldest.

As a matter of fact, number of years as a criterion of capacity for rendering public service has been proved practically useless. William Pitt at twenty-odd was widely recognized as a perfectly efficient Prime Minister; so was Gladstone at more than eighty. Energy, originality, courage have more in their favor than age or youth as standards by which to judge men's abilities.

What Japanese See When They Look Into History

San Bernardino Sun

The hardest thing about the problem now faced by the western powers in the Far East is the way their own past rises up to condemn them when they condemn Japan. As a much-traveled American newspaperman writes:

We might more gracefully assume an attitude of high and mighty indignation at such a pass if our own hands were not a little sticky. We didn't take the Philippines from a nation that was precisely at the zenith of her power. Does anybody think that if China were able to protect herself, England and France would be occupying her richest cities of Shanghai and Hongkong, dividing them into foreign "concessions," making their own laws, trying their own subjects, taking what they can?

If Japan at this juncture is mercenary and audacious and greedy and forgetful of the ideas of international justice, she has had excellent instruction from the nations that are now worrying about her Manchurian activities.

Oh, yes, we're good now. We're not grabbing territory any more. We western powers have learned international morality from the sufferings of the World war, as Japan has not, because she was so little involved. And besides, most of us have what we need. We can afford to be good.

Our preachings, however, and even our proper insistence on the sacredness of treaties, would be more persuasive to Japan if all our own hands were clean.

MAKE YOUR OWN MORAL

"By the time a man reaches the age of forty-five, he appreciates the futility of crime."—Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing.

When Dan the Duck was twenty-one
He had no moral code,
So, with a blackjack and a gun
His wild, wild oats he sowed.
Enlisted in the evil ranks
Of men of wild careers,
He burgled stores and looted banks
Through many sinful years.
But now that he is doing time
He sees how fatuous is crime.

The gangster, in the bloom of youth,
His mind still crude and raw,
Proceeds by methods most uncouth
To violate the law.
He drives about with feral "mobs"
In speedy armored cars,
He preys and slays and shoots and robs
Till placed behind the bars,
Where, in his later, wiser days
He sees the error of his ways.

As time rolls slowly on its course
These felons see a light,
The qualms of conscience and remorse
Beset them day and night.
If they were outside, looking in,
Not inside looking out,
They'd all forsake the paths of sin
Beyond a shade of doubt.
Alas, behind the prison gate
Repentance comes a bit too late!

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

QUITTERS

The poet Goldsmith's hope that he might crown "a youth of labour with an age of ease" is shared by many people—until they try the experiment. Then they spend most of their time trying and failing to find congenial companions who will keep them company in their loafing.

The "blest retirement, friend to life's decline," isn't nearly so "blest," once it is tried.

The happiest people I know are those who keep on working as long as possible.

I do not mean that there should be nothing to look forward to in life but one's work, although that is by no means a dismal prospect.

After sixty a person can hardly be as active as he was in his twenties.

But if he has not some regular and interesting occupation, he is going to have a pretty dull time for the rest of his existence.

* * * * *

I know three or four men who carried out their intention of quitting all employment after they had money enough to support them for the remainder of their earthly days.

Most of them spend a great deal of time trying to find people who will play with them.

Such people they do find, now and then, but they are by no means as congenial as the old friends.

Moreover their mentalities are slowed up considerably because to keep them at concert pitch required the constant contact and brush with people who are living active lives, and getting fun out of it.

The happiest man is the man who can keep on working to the end, and he is usually the healthiest.

For the runaway from life has so little to think about that he begins to think daily about his physical condition, and by and by begins to get some of the maladies he fancies he has, probably because he becomes slovenly about his exercise.

One can blame nobody who is working hard at uncongenial labor for looking forward to the day when he can be rid of it.

But even such a person will probably get less fun out of his retirement that he thinks he is going to get.

* * * * *

I have now and then been in clubs where old gentlemen who had made abundant money were trying to keep contented by playing poker or billiards, or talking about business or politics.

Always I noted that when one of their associates who was still in business life came in they all sat up and questioned him eagerly and their envy of him and his activities showed plainly in their almost pathetic faces.

All the great men in history who lived long lives kept active and interested, and in that way remained happy.

If they had "quit the world, where strong temptations try, And since it's hard to combat, learned to fly," they would have been a pitiful lot of old fellows, who had really nothing to look forward to but the grave.

Keeping it up for a while till it started to get monotoniss, and I yelled, Forward charge, over the top.

Frend or foe, Puds yelled. And we started to pertend we was attacking the enemy, nocking over the 2 kitchin chairs and pushing the table all crooked and making the most noise yet, and then who came in mad with 2 suitcases and her hat on but Nora, saying, Now whats all this, look at me cleen kitchin, holey saints, get out of here before I skin the 2 of yez alive.

You dont live here any more, youve left, I said feeling half scared and half brave, and Nora said, O its left I have, is it? Well Ill just stay here and get the supper started till your mother comes home, Ill prove Im still boss in this kitchin for a little while anyways, and if theres a boy in me site by the time I get me coat off let heaven have pity on him, she said.

Making me feel all a ways scared and none brave, and me and Puds quick ran out dropping the pots and things like a small but retreeting army, and Nora started to get supper reddy for ma.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

FOUR NEW GOALS OF EDUCATION

The old educators sat in their libraries and worked out schemes of education that seemed logically right to them, and trusted blindly that the results would be beneficial.

The old educators started with the scheme and ended with the student.

The new educators reverse this process.

They start with the student and end with the scheme.

This has been made possible by the new science of human measurement of which I spoke yesterday.

This new science of measurement has made possible four new educational goals. They are:

(1) The new education seeks to measure the mind of the student. It does this because it has seen the fallacy of assuming that all students are alike. Ordinary rule-of-thumb observation has at last shown that students are very different. And it has at last dawned on us that the road to happiness and effectiveness lies through the development, not of the likenesses of students, but of the differences of students. And modern psychological research has given us ways and means of measuring these differences. Only in this modern age has education studied its subject matter.

(2) The new education seeks to measure the mind of the student. It is not content to assume that its results are satisfactory just because the teacher has been conscientious. Again, it takes advantage of the new instruments of measurement to determine just what the education process has done to the student. Only in this modern age have we reached the point where we can actually determine whether a school or school system is a paying investment.

(3) The new education seeks to measure the aptitude of the individual student and determine just what he is best fitted by temperament and training to do.

It is not content to run all students through the mill and set them adrift to pick their vocations by guess or by accident. Only in this modern age have been succeeded in devising methods of measurement of abilities to the point where we can with measurable accuracy tell a student he will succeed and be happy in this occupation and not in that.

(4) The new education seeks to measure and to mould character.

It is not content to assume that more exhortation to goodness is enough. It takes advantage of all the new instruments of human measurement to discover the points of strength and the points of weakness in the individual student, and then frames its treatment of the student to hamper the weaknesses and help the strengths.

This is why I suggested yesterday that, in my judgment, the researches that have developed the methods of human measurements are the most important researches of our time.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

"BEANS"

Beans, it must be confessed, did not look like a regular boy. He was thin. His hands were long and white. His clothes were always brushed, his collar clean, his hair shining, though tussled, and falling in a thatch over his eyes. He spoke in a girlish voice when he spoke at all, which was seldom. His eyes were remarkable. Big, dark, shining, they seemed to have infinite depth and always to be looking by you to what lay beyond somewhere on an unseen horizon. More than all, he wore glasses that were so big and so round that they loked like moons. "Boston Beans," the boys dubbed him and then shoved him out of their way.

The teachers noticed the timid boy standing on the edge of the group at every game. At the slightest suggestion that he join in the games he withdrew immediately. He wouldn't fight. He couldn't run. He hated the swimming pool. He recited his lessons in a hurried monotone and sat down with all haste. When the teacher tried to get him to stand up and talk clearly he refused to budge out of his seat and stubbornly shut his lips against making a sound.

He had no friends until he met the music teacher. He could play the piano like a master. He could play any musical instrument the orchestra furnished. Music was his whole existence and his sole delight. He stayed after school, he came ahead of time, he went without lunch, if there was a chance to get in an extra period of music anywhere, anytime, throughout the day.

One day the teacher who played the piano for assembly was not present. Nobody was at liberty and it looked as though the school must march and sing and go on its morning way without the help of music. Then the teacher in charge had a happy idea. "Is there anybody here who can take Miss Lucia's place at the piano and lead the singing and the orchestra?"

The teachers looked at each other and stood firm to a man. No help from them. Then somebody stirred in the group over by the door and a skinny little figure wormed its way through the benches and out to the main aisle. Beans was going to the piano. Everybody strained his neck to see and a twittering ran through the big room, a twittering that threatened to become an out and out roar of laughter. Before it could gather force enough for the outbreak Beans turned and faced the great group of children, shook back his hair, settled his absurd specs upon his ridiculous little nose, threw back his head and lifted his hands.

Did they sing? Beans did whatever he liked with them. They hung on the ends of his fingers. He might not be able to swim, he might not be able to catch a ball. But he could play. In his field he was master and the school acknowledged it ungrudgingly. From then on he was "Professor" or "Beans."

I have told you about our Beans because maybe you have one of your own and you are worried because he isn't like other boys. Suppose he is just himself? Wouldn't that be enough? It is all any of us can be. Why demand of a child what is not his to give? Why make a goose of a swan?
